I would love to watch a convinced Christian that overwhelmingly supports zionism, they have strong American conservative “values”, and they cheers so much thinking Islam is all wrong. I want to watch this guy smile, give high fives, and think they have made amazing discovery the world must know but won’t listen to because only he and a few others can always be right like him, would love to cheer right beside him. What a memory that would be!

A YouTube channel called “Broadcast Boys” had a host that said he would rather take Chet Holmgren in a video than stay at a 5-star hotel for a week in Qatar. The reason for this he said is because he doesn’t want to go to jail for having sex outside of marriage which he says he would do. He may think this is a “good”, “creative”, idea, what he doesn’t accept is that the Middle East has already tried this historically where it has failed every time, how could Qatar be wrong to have laws against this practice? Is there something different about today’s earth that for instance because we have cars that means pre-marital sex can function in a society? He may think it is working in America, but studies would show that it is not, and it is causing so much promiscuity and a high-rate children out of wedlock. Even if the “Broadcast Boys” host faked a response to this question a fan of his asked, shame on his fans for not being able to recognize the obvious terrible idea this famous YouTube person supports.

On an internet forum for Counter Strike Source that I went on when I was around age 14, some guy who was anonymous signed up to the forum and posted gay pornography of old guys in a horrific form of having sex with each other on purpose for that alone and got from it after a few posts of this sick material. I spent a good amount of time on this forum, so to defend it I responded with “yuk! Get out of here, you’re sick.” Some hero of some kind messaged me who was older than I was who was a moderator on the forums, he told do not respond to people like this ever, this stuff happens. Now in today’s earth, if you do that on forum, you will get so many comments of people thanking you that you have done a service showing what they view as “liberation of the oppressed” and you had started the conversation on a forum you signed up to “share” this “work of art.”

I wonder how many people in America will not vote for a candidate they agree with so much on in the basis of asking “what’s in it for me?” You may have values, but the candidates are so similar, besides of that, it is the Presidents power, not yours, you being poor you are at the lowest of low in society. It is funny because Presidents always offer so much hope for a better economy, yet they never deliver democrat or republican, yet people vote anyways believing the candidate.

This is myself; I would think Muhammad the final Prophet of Allah would know the Israelite faith night and day better than a white convert to talmudism being that Ancient Israel and Muhammad was from there. Muhammad even warns that the world will end with endless evidence. Muhammad would know talmudism. But a convert to talmudism when they converted back in the year 740 in the Caucasus where the converts even lie about being “Jewish blood”, because of the archaeological evidence, we know this to be a lie that they got away with for so long. These frauds will keep claiming to understand the two Talmud’s which is law and theology that so little people can understand to any degree. These frauds will tell you that Muhammad cannot understand the two Talmud’s because Muhammad never once advocated for a “third” temple and the coming of a false messiah since Muhammad will tell you he understands the two Talmud’s the best by far of anyone throughout history. In fact, Muhammad told Jews he knew the Prophets better than the Jews did, the Jews never listened once and refused to convert to Islam, meaning if the Jews would not listen, these talmudists would listen far less to anything Muhammad would tell them about the Prophets if it went at all against what the talmudists believe. It is so obvious now that the talmudists believe in many gods, the talmudists will lie and say they “believe in one god”, we know they are really saying “we only believe in the cause of our one false god not that there is one god”. What is even more amazing, talmudists will argue with each other so much over if a god exists or not. Both get passionate about it, both are only doing this politically, but they will insult each other so much and get so angry how that is possible to even get very angry over something they both agree on but politically, I haven’t a clue.

Get ready because a generation will come along below age 18 where they lack every moral possible that the Bible and Quran try so hard to teach a person. Important

You just know with Aisha in particular; she must have been such a fighter, maybe even one of the biggest fighters throughout all humanity one could make the case. If there was much more material written in her, everyone would absolutely know Islam to be a fact. Think of everything she did for the religion of Islam. Narrating over 2,000 hadiths that she had to remember years later, watching wars with Muhammad at 15 (?), being in wars after Muhammad’s death, memorizing the Quran daily, contributed to medicine, contributed to Arab literature, teaching the faith to the youth as a job after Muhammad’s death, sharing Muhammad with his other wives when she clearly loved him, wrote poetry, three/five prayers a day on time punctual, travel all through Arabia to make alliances to also explore knowledge, explained the Quran and hadith’s excellent, do Hajj yearly, having an incredible memory, studying knowledge outside of scripture, she was falsely accused of adultery, being one of the highest positions in the Ummah after Muhammad's death, doing charity daily, only marrying Muhammad her whole life and I am sure there is more that cannot be found on the internet. What is amazing too, in Ecclesiastes there is a verse that says life is meaningless, this would be an example of the opposite where I don't know what else she could do with her life!

The Taliban leaders are so hard they view you their citizen as lucky to live under them and be Muslim where you have the religion correct. So, when you cry when something goes horribly wrong pick anything, they do not care in the slightest to change anything about the country. It makes you wonder, if one of the leaders were to be seriously hurt and he wanted something minor changed to try to prevent this in the future, would the other leaders get rid of his top position where they don't put him in jail obviously but tell him that he will never serve in office again for the rest of his life?! No wonder the Saud's wanted to put them back in and I think Joe Biden lied that he made a mistake taking out the troops that it just had to be and there was nothing he could do given how long the war was going on for. They knew the Taliban would not attack Iran ever, but they knew that people will only hate Islam more after learning this material.

I think the reason why the Muslims during Muhammad's time didn't bother at all with the Bible is because they knew the Bible would be preserved anyways, so why even learn it? The only Holy Book valued by these Muslims is the Quran and no other book matters. This means knowing any story found in the Bible is not needed for you to know since it cannot be proven as a fact that the event happened or happened the way the Bible described such as Prophet Moses living in Egypt. This is a genius way to think at least to me, yet the Bible speaks of Muhammad throughout it and the Bible has so many stories of the Arabian Prophets that you may want to learn about where it will give you wisdom you may want to know. For myself, I would no doubt want to know badly that the Prophets are Arabian and Ancient Israel was in Arabia which the Bible indicates to a good amount when studied in depth. Think about it more, the Bible is so similar to the Quran with the stories being about Arabian Prophets at least the entire Old Testament is, yet you could just tell someone "Why would we need the Bible?" Yet the Bible, is about Islam but because the Bible is not infallible and also contains a false gospel with like 10% of it from the actual gospel, this is what the Muslims during Muhammad's time figured. Yet still, the Bible contains so many stories of the Prophets who were heroes which I believe are accurate and preserved very well in the Old Testament, yet the Muslims during Muhammad's time did not need the Bible at all. You will get the Bible with no errors in it in Paradise, so you don’t need the Bible that is corrupted on this earth. The Quran speaks of the Psalms, the Torah, the Gospel however you are never told you have to read these books in order to read the Quran, you are given the option to read them, but you know they are corrupted but not to what extent. What is amazing too, because the Muslims did this, it makes the religion seem like Islam is about Allah and Muhammad alone. Islam as we know, is about the Prophets, not about Muhammad and Allah alone. Muhammad is one of six major Prophets. It goes even further, people of all faiths will mock Muhammad, but when the Quran talks about the other Prophets, they just say “it’s not believable, Muhammad is either delusional or is lying about Moses”, they would never insult Moses from what Muhammad claims about Muhammad. I am sure there are for instance hindus that do that, but you don’t hear about it at all. This means all the Prophets all the Prophets are protected in a way in the Quran. When people mock Christ, they will mock bible verses, never Quran verses about Prophet Isa. Why would anyone mock Moses in the Quran when they can spend all day mocking Muhammad? Because the people who hate Islam always talk about Muhammad and Allah, and because the Muslims rush to defend Allah and Muhammad, this means the fact that the Quran is about the Prophets whereas the false gospel is about Jeshu, it is hidden so good!

Back in 2012, a study was done where 37% of Democrats collected welfare, 30% of Republicans collected welfare, 28% of Independents collected welfare that is how it is split. Yet ironically, the democrats are viewed as the ones who are responsible for all the voters being on welfare. The republican party to this day will lie to you and say that their policies have proven to work all the time and people won’t collect welfare that only like 3% of people who collect welfare vote republican. This is a lie that the media tries. This means the republican party are such frauds because all their supporters hate having people on welfare but will gladly pay welfare under the lie that people get off it as studies would show to them if they were republican. What really happens is that people like their party so much, they have nothing wrong with paying welfare provided you vote for them, yet they hate welfare but because they hate democrats so much, they will gladly take your support if you are on welfare for life. The republicans will get mad when the statistics are shown to them the amount of people on welfare that vote republican, as if they have that right. Mitt Romney in a leaked video back in 2012 that wild viral even said that all people on welfare vote democrat that’s why Barack Obama wins, Mitt said he must appeal to the good people who are independent who are hardworking who would never take the welfare since the only people on welfare are Barack Obama voters. The hypocrisy from republican voters and their leaders here since Mitt Romney won’t apologize for this gaff ever.

After what I have shown about patients' behaviors, the government should step in at least in America probably Europe too that people who collect welfare, not for 3 years where they have nowhere to live or if they are disabled for a few years since there always is work of some kind, these patients should not have custody of children ever. I have to say first that I support people collecting welfare and working 28 hours a week, there is nothing wrong with that at all, that's still a person with good values where they may need the welfare especially given how bad the economy is where they can never work their way up. Their children need leaders' actual parents versus the schools teaching them every skill to life, not have people as parents who only care for themselves as I have shown. Yet the government will never step in.

What more jerk thing you could possibly do then to convert to what you think is Islam, and completely overlook not caring at all about how the wahhab's are killing innocent Yemenis people. Where you will talk about what you think is the faith all day, but you make zero mention of this at all because you have told the public "there is no fault in what I believe." What you believe sir where you claim a religion and you want people to believe exactly your interpretation of what you believe and you will argue with them if they don't all day long.

Communist Cuba is now changing their views where under Fidel Castro, homosexuals were taken to labor camps from 1959 to 1980 where they were beaten there, gay clubs were shut down if ever seen. As of September 25, 2022, a referendum for gay marriage will take place. There is a huge issue with this, Fidel had people killed that didn't see eye to eye with him in his government or at least they were tortured for it being seen as an enemy of the state. If you try to protest in Cuba for a new government, they will torture you. But for some reason, under the perfect communist dictatorship that the one who can never be criticized nor questioned what he did Fidel Castro nor his brother Raul Castro, will not admit a fault on their parts for having gay people beaten. They know this would mean their country has serious flaws when exposed. Important

All these people who do orgies so frequent (not particularly the ones who have sex with prostitutes exclude that), they are so sick I know all of them do this not for sexual gratification, they do this because they get these thoughts in their minds which can only be achieved through the sickest orgies possible. Their minds are out of control, when they do this it is the equivalent of torturing an animal, these sick people found a legal way to get the same thoughts that would come from doing such an action. Yet they will play so innocent and lie claiming to be a sex addict when caught or will say that it is legal and that is their freedom in America. These sick people who do this know that it is completely legal to do, for them to lie much take such a nerve for them to do that after they get caught so many times, then they make up a story. Or heck, I have seen them go on radio shows and talk about what a great time they have while hiding what they really have orgies for. The same would apply to a brothel, people go to get sick thoughts. Look at the drugs they do with these orgies, it is not for thrill or to escape like they will try to mislead you to believe. Important

I had never known this; racism is a horrific thing. It may seem like nothing; someone may feel like the king of the earth on Xbox live like someone was when we were both 14 and he told me he had a large “nazi” flag on his bathroom door and he would constantly talk about how black people were “*”. I had no clue at all that yes, he can grow up to make the news for something so awful you not even know especially when he was very smart for a 14-year-old at least that is how I saw it, I am sure a psychiatrist would agree with me if they ever met him. He’s 14, by 22, he could get so bad for something that didn’t seem like it would get at all worse given the fact that he probably was skinny judging by his voice on Xbox live so if he were skinny at 22, wouldn’t he be afraid of a black person who is much bigger than him or at least if the black person was his size he wouldn’t want the cops to show up where the cops will clearly take him down. He would be the one who gets hurt given all these groups he can join, just like that we don’t know what would happen to him. Even if you hated him, you tried to protect him in some way, yet I am sure when he grew up, he never listened but I don’t think it got so out of hand with him if I were to bet on it. However, the anti-racists will show up such as antifa, and they have also been proven to be equally as dangerous in society when they hear about a politician being elected that they think is “racist”. Anti-racism also if not make antifa members, it can easily make people who are malignant narcissists in society.

If Abu Hurairah the best Islamic hadith narrator who narrated over 5,000 hadiths the most by far, if he possesses a photographic memory as stated in his Wikipedia page, he is very smart. Muhammad picked a great person to follow him knowing he will record what is happening. Abu Hurairah is obviously a very kind person if he had an attachment to cats like it is stated on his Wikipedia page.

How genius people are that you may go against us (being Jayda Fransen) but here is your threat, it is the Muslims who want to take over Britain and we (Jada and friends) will keep reminding you. It doesn’t bother us (Jada and friends) as shown by our actions, but it will bother you. Also, we (Jada and friends) went to jail for 36 weeks imprisonment, the crime is clearly going up in Britain, there is a concern you have for your families that yes, we (Jada and friends) are out there, and we do material like this which will scare you even more if you go against us. In the future, you can expect more and more influencers in society like them (Jada and friends as an example). Important

No matter how you read the false gospel, the cross Christians is proof their god jesus won. The Christians will give you all these stories about how awful their god jesus was persecuted, beaten, a disciple turned on him, they let Christianity be mocked. Inside, the Christians when they wear a cross, they believe their god jesus has won and is victorious over all other people's and all other faiths as they display for you a cross that they wear. So really, the Christians that do such are not giving you the truth about what they really think. Also, because there is no Holy Land in Christianity or rather their Holy Land is" protected" by the zionists or Palestine, they don't care who owns the land, it could be the buddhists. Provided their holy lands are not ever attacks, they will never care. The only holy land they have, is in Palestine. Yet us Muslims get criticized by other faiths wondering why we need to have both Palestine and Arabia considering the three Holy Lands are in both areas.

The "religious police" must be stressed beyond what one person can handle given the phone calls they must be getting daily; they will not be able to work the job in the future. There goes your country Saudi Arabia given that you need the "religious police" to maintain your image as a "Islamic country" to dupe the world. In a documentary, it showed me the citizens keep reporting false claims against their neighbors that their neighbors are "enemies of Islam". This is clearly being hidden from the public.

Going to all these protests, getting angry all the time, going on your smartphone just to argue with people who deny climate change, your life was horrible, and you know it. You know who won from all this? Only Greta Thunberg alone nobody else who she goes to the rallies with, now since she is over 18, I can criticize her for all this where you are her servant, she is your master, her monopoly is something for the ages, she will be doing this until at least age 40. If she were to read this paragraph, she would either smirk, or say "he is a climate change denying extremist" or say, "he is jealous of me."

I just noticed this; in a year bitcoin has crashed losing 2/3rds of its value. That was all people talked about in 2021. Will they stop for good? I will bet yes on this. It has to go way up for people to talk about bitcoin again, I doubt it will, but I would never say yes or no neither would surprise me if it happened. I am just amazed by this.

America cannot have a draft nor mandate military training for its citizens, ever. If you have stripped me all rights of owning firearms, you are telling me you do not need me to fight in a war for you ever and also, I would be wasting everyone's time at a mandated military training what I would have no clue what I am doing being that I am mentally ill. They tell this to 1/3rd of Americans, see how wrong this truly is?! I can show America clearly does not want me as a citizen. What if I wanted to fight for America for "freedom in Afghanistan"? What would I do? Help at home with working a part time job at a grocery store like the psychiatrist told me? How would that help America out if ever America needed to fight a serious war overseas with a draft involved?! Remember too, I do not send messages all day long to people on the internet in America claiming they are mentally ill, yet that is what happens so much on the internet I have been typing on YouTube comments for over 7 years where that is all we do is insult each other over politics usually. We may not use the term "mentally ill" but we sure imply it to people we don't get along with. Can you imagine if the people running the country did this to the Ukraine citizen?

This one clinician lady who I don't think is in on it, she will answer any question about her personal life, give out dating advice, she will talk a lot about herself and her living with her parents. This 32-year-old clinician got so defensive and upset when I asked what religion her parents were. I don't understand this at all. She wouldn't tell me her religious beliefs, but she would not get defensive if I ever asked her what hers are, this makes zero sense at all.

All these Christians on the internet who call me "Abdul" or who tell me to "find a Bible verse", "find a Quran verse", my response is always no! You have already made up your mind, maybe 1% of all Christians who convert to Islam later on in life. however, I cannot tell them what to believe or why I chose Islam as if they will ever listen to me, converting to Islam is a choice they will make on their own and it will be because of a speaker or because they read the Quran and believed the Quran. This has nothing to do with me arguing with a street preacher or arguing with someone on the internet over verses what the explanation means to me that they have already heard before. Yes, this very much angers me that someone on the internet seriously thinks I will respond to a comment like that where they are clearly trying to make me look dumb in some way and have zero intent of ever converting but are hoping to bait me into responding! Ironically, you are sending this message to the one religion where the followers are taught that the disbelievers will never believe no matter what that you waste my time, yet your Christianity does not teach such. Important

They will claim that we Muslims recruit child soldiers to bring us down. Yet these are the same people that fund Al Qaeda, which recruits children as young as 8. When you bring this up, they will lie and say that they are not funding Al Qaeda and they do not know how Al Qaeda gets their weapons to fight our fellow Muslim brothers, the hypocrisy here.

When all countries except for Iran, Somalia, and Sudan in the whole world participate in the “participation of the convention on the elimination of all forms discrimination against women” yet Saudi Arabia has signed and ratified it, you already know there is something so shady in this that Iran would love to tell you all about that Iran clearly does not want for their citizens to be a part of at all. Think about it, Saudi Arabia signed it, the country that did not want you to ever think that women were anything hence why they banned women from driving for so long where clearly now Saudi Arabia has changed their minds about women!

People are going to feel that special, what will happen is that if a neighbor comes over to greet them, the person doesn’t want their neighbor at all to talk to them, they will say somewhat raising their voice to announce it but not yelling “no thanks, take your meds!” where the special person walks away from the conversation entirely. The special person says this as if they are the boss of their neighbor where their neighbor has told be told by a leader of some sort. That these people who feel that special are that much of a boss. If there ever is a conflict between the two people, how are the cops going to resolve this where the cops cannot tell when someone is all wrong with a conflict where the cops clearly try to blame both parties and the person who feels so special will use the cops to their advantage.

A black person from New Jersey who is 35 I met who has a family and works two jobs who is very easy to get along with and never wants to offend anyone regardless of what they believe or what their race told me where he takes offense to almost nothing as if help will fix your issue whatever it may be since he works in the mental health field and he clearly wants to get along with everyone he meets. He said to me, “I was taught not to go to Camden by friends” meaning he was taught to drive around it. He then says “well you wouldn’t go to the area if you were not a part of it in New Jersey, you’re not from there you don’t go there” basically saying that’s not code of conduct to do, not a New Jersey thing to explore parts of New Jersey at all (he’s not being up front here). He then says “well there are good people who live in Camden, anyone would want to live there” meaning anyone would want to live anywhere, someone may want to live in Worcester or Newton to each their own there is something to gain from each town or city, a city could be special for someone. When I told him that if I were to ever call someone from Camden a horrific name that I would run immediately, he purposely didn't respond knowing exactly what someone from Camden would do to me. He clearly wanted to get out of this conversation when the day before we had a great talk about how I took interest in basketball and wanted to talk to him more about it. As if it is not obvious enough that this guy will never quit on America.

They call it a "generalization" if you say, "women love to talk", yes I am aware about 15% of women do not like to talk. We cannot accept this reality as society here. I must wonder, do they not want women to embrace this reality about themselves? To tell women this is some sort of generalization, something women are passionate about?! Who would be the one to tell women what they can and cannot think where they will tell a woman that this reality (mind you) is some sort of lie? Are all facts "generalizations" such as lying upsetting everyone since they claim, "well a few people are happy to be lied to"? Important

I can give you an example that you cannot opt out of religion ever. You may tell people "I'm a nobody", you may feel that you are a "nobody" being that you are poor. Heck, if you have read over 20 books of different subjects and can understand them, you just know that you are worth something no matter what. What you would be doing is telling a lie though you don't think it is because you want to be a "nobody", "nobodies" live much easier lives I am sure many studies have been done to try to never get jealous or care what anyone in the whole world thinks. If you think about it, there are titles like Imam, an Imam is not a nobody just because an Imam is not a Caliph nor a Prophet. The Imam earned his title. This means no child can ever be a "nobody", fact, this would be neglect (not abuse) to call a child this not meant to harm a child but to make their life easier by "tricking" them by saying that "nobody matters", not even their own parents. Important

Jim Jefferies a "comedian" says "god made me the way I am" after saying horrific things against Allah to a Christian pastor in America. Jim just claimed Allah didn't give him free will or Allah doesn't know what he is doing. Jim, you do not want option number 2, to call Allah stupid. Jim, if you think you are getting away with this if you seriously try saying that Allah enjoys all the comedians" of the earth given the Quran verses that Quran 15:95 is not understood properly by all Muslims that mocking Islam is just in good fun and the believers didn't have to be warned that in the future this would happen to Muslims. Good luck.

Lebron James is going to try to say something along the line of "there's always hope for Boston, I am sure they could listen to good figures and no longer be racist" when Lebron knows not only does he not want this for the city of Boston but that he does not believe Boston could ever improve on what he calls “racism”. Lebron may not try something like this. What Lebron could say is “well, if most of Boston supports blm then they are no longer racist, I am glad to support them and how they are new people”, this would be a truth on his part (yes? No?), but it doesn’t change the fact that Lebron doesn’t think this will happen nor does he ever want it to, at the very least he wants to trash Boston fans as much as possible until things drastically change for Boston fans. I personally don’t think Lebron wants his blm any bigger than it already is, at least in the case of adding Boston fans to it that he clearly hates in some way. Lebron and Boston cannot understand that an accusation from a top 10 greatest of all time basketball player must be addressed in some way. The people of Boston are to get upset by someone like Lebron would make such a claim, Boston’s politicians need to invite him to a dinner to talk it out, if they seriously care for their citizens, let’s see if their politicians do this or not.

This is a message to the Iranian government; the world already thinks you are one if the not the evilest empires in the world today. Why even reach out to the world? Just invite people to Islam through one book alone since the world will not hear your case at all. If the world thinks you are going in hiding and you are hiding ambitions, guess what? The citizens will still support the government I am convinced, and the world could not possibly think lower of your country except for a small amount of the world’s citizens who already know to research the claims you put out, so put out less and less claims giving those who want to know enough access so they can support your country versus having your supreme leader use Twitter all day. Iran has already banned Facebook for all its citizens, so the world already thinks your country is some sort of oppressor of not only free speech but of people’s joy in life since 2.9 billion people use Facebook that your country does not allow for. Important

American politicians can legalize anything sick you could possibly imagine, it’s citizens I am not kidding will go along with this since they have “freedom” where they will choose to protest it (where the protest fails miserably?!) America is a “democracy”, so it’s citizens can always vote or not vote for the president they best identify with. Best of all, when you don’t get the candidate you wanted, you can take it right to Twitter to trash your fellow Americans all day is what people on Twitter who support America do who do not support a group that America allows known as blm. You also protest all the wars since you want “peace” as your ideological beliefs where America gladly lets you protest it and trash for instance Dick Chaney as the sick man you know him to be because you would do by far the best job ever running America of all the world and its human beings ever in existence. Yes, I am saying you have no limits, yet you love to trash people in America who are clearly wrong with limits which an education system that did not educate that citizen of America properly and where America gave them a smart phone to use all day where America paid for that person’s social security provided, they claimed a “mental illness”. Remember, you the American citizen are not only the hero the world so badly wants but cannot have for some reason, but you are also a genius who can do no wrong no matter what. How special one must really be. Important

How special the citizens of the Soviet Union must have been that during the Gulags how the citizens clearly knew what was going on, they went along with everything the Soviet Union did. Not out of fear but trusting in their overlord Joe Stalin where he will bring them everything they could ever dream of and communism for all people of the earth. But Joe Stalin will stop doing all the genocides on the people of the Soviet Union needed, but they felt safe living under Joe Stalin after he took your own uncle you turned on claiming he works for the capitalists, you clearly can never admit fault and you found your overlord to always have your back despite the fact in communism, there are not meant to be any leaders of any kind at all, and you elevated Joe Stalin to beyond any title one could possibly be given. Important

To the many Christians that overlook everything America does at home that I believe goes against your beliefs but will always condemn every war America ever fights or believes that all America’s wars are all to keep people safe from “evil dictators”, I have a question for you. When I talk to you and show you what I view as endless Bible verses between both your old and new testaments, you respond with every time “that’s not what the Bible is getting at” where you are not arguing but you genuinely believe I am wrong with understanding scripture. The question I have for you is not how many verses would you need until you believe America is not a Christian nation, but what are these verses trying to say, so every Bible verse I provide you with that I believe denounces America? Can you show me what each verse means and what the verse is trying to tell the follower of the religion, can you please write out at least two sentences for me for each verse I provide you with? Thanks. Important

One of the workers I saw was getting frustrated at just how many phone calls he gets daily from people requesting things from him or trying to check up for appointments to go on, it seems like he gets a phone call every 8 minutes of 23 plenty of which do not call at all? How?! Think about how many phone calls that are illegitimate to the police, where the police do not do anything about it like section the person, if they did section the person, the person would not care in the slightest being sectioned but I highly doubt they get sectioned ever from making three phone calls a day to report neighbors or where they ask for help with things that they themselves can do. Could you imagine someone causes their own stress by calling the cops so much, what they then do is blame their neighbors for the stress they cause, the police do nothing about the situation!

Whoever thought of moving shows like South Park to daytime for reruns when it had to be aired past 10 P.M. by law (I think), they have to be a genius of some kind to give some jerk exactly what they wanted where they can watch South Park on their TV all day when they already have the ability to watch it on the internet through the South Park websites. During commercials, the lazy can just check their phones to text a friend which they will do.

People will dig holes so deep with deep with the things they say how people ridicule them that they only way for them that they only way for them to get out of the situation they put themselves in is to say horrific things about politicians and it will work every time.

It is viewed as bullying to some degree to criticize what a woman wears. Let’s say for instance a woman is wearing a shirt that is too revealing, that is wrong of you to do, and you may get fired to telling that to your boss. At every environment including the public, we all want to be friends, simply saying to a woman you’ve known for a while and get along with very well that her clothing is offsetting to you that is deemed offensive or even sexist. It does not file under “hate” when you do not like their clothing at all. This means you simply cannot win with this, they have you in checkmate. Important

If you think deep on this, Muhammad must have been a superhero of some kind to always solve the problem and always be there to fix it. Muhammad had the superpower of being super quick and the most efficient of all. Picture just how fast Muhammad would get to a problem and then leave it immediately when the problem was fixed. Important

Do you notice how the countries deemed the most dangerous in the world which are Islamic are the ones that protect you from drugs and alcohol?

A polytheist who is smart from my former high school hid the fact that he too believes the world will end, he just doesn’t believe it will end the way Islam preaches and he keeps making it seem like there’s hope in humanity and the future given how he puts the American flag on his facebook page and puts political material up (I don’t know if he seriously believes that or not or if he’s lying, I don’t care either way). Given what I have given you, what polytheist or atheist could possibly put doubt in me that the world will end? Do they also say “no, the sun will not lose its hydrogen in 5 billion years and will fully prevent itself from ever being hot nor will it ever, we will never know for sure it's science we are always learning" yet they talk about "science" all day? Please try that last sentence on me "scientists?" It is a fact all scientists accept that the sun will overheat ending the earth. Yet scientists insult religion for having absolute and no theories. Scientists lose here! Important

The disbelievers took the word "protect" when told they were to take care of their children, and then turned the word into "attack" for those they and their children did not get along with. The disbelievers still claimed they wanted "peace" in society, they would remind you every day that they themselves wanted "peace."

You could keep claiming "Thanatophobia" (the fear of death) where you claim religion is 100% inaccurate and that you made a horrible mistake being religious since heck the hospital already called you insane once. What you do is you read Richard Dawkins, Sam Harris, Christopher Hitchens, memorize all the talking points they try to make as if you yourself are their best student they could ever ask for where you also know "science" at a master's level. Would these "brave heroes" not think you are "mentally ill" at all? I wonder this. Heck, bring one of the books with you to read it there if you feel like it but make sure to take a basket of clothes with you since you don't know how long it will be that they keep you in the hospital/ psych ward. Keep getting mad every time someone mentions religion, or you see them wear a cross (be careful with the second part of that). They will never put you in jail for that when they discover you're clearly lying to them, like I said, you are Muslims, all muslims are crazy in American society. One last thing don't forget to flood your social media with atheist quotes, pictures of atheist books, trashing religion comics but don't be too excessive with it. I guess you can say you are "committed" to "atheism" for life if you catch what I am saying here.

If you look up Ground for Divorce in America, I am confident that Allah would support every grounds for divorce listed there. The only one debatable is financial backing where the spouse doesn't want to pay her share in the marriage, but that would be a 50-50 really. The irony where America has to accept Allah's laws, it is as if America did so well with this, America gets an A from me on theology here. Important

The FBI played good guy with me making me seem like I am this "victim" in society, and then when they knew after the third meeting that I am not quitting my religious beliefs, they gave up entirely, they weren't even going to argue with me or insult my beliefs. But they did come by one time to make fun of me claiming that I am poor and I have not made it in life asking me how much money was in my bank account to try to trick me, you would think of all things they would mock me for is being that I converted to Islam thinking they could get under my skin and the FBI of all people would know how to do that to a religious person. Does any of this make sense to you? If it wasn't for the obvious trap, they tried I don't know how long they wanted me in jail for be it 5-10-20 years, this makes them look not to bad and somewhat powerless. It makes me think the FBI just wanted to scare me, but I will never know since the FBI will gladly lie to you and heck the government can never be trusted for a serious matter like this.

You can just spin tolerance on anyone, you can just say "you are not tolerant of my religious beliefs and who I am", how can anyone argue this?!

In no way am I siding with the women who do not wear the hijab in Iran. When Muslim men tell the women who do not wear hijab in public that "the martyrs died for you" to a woman like that, the martyrs died for what was best for Iran. If the hijab being mandatory is best which we don't know, then yes the martyrs died for this law that Iran has. It isn't true, but I totally understand where the Muslim men telling women who don't wear hijab this. By no means are the Muslim men here right or wrong. I did not type this to criticize either side in any way. But to show you what the martyrs really wanted which we Muslims of today.

Psychology as taught by most countries worldwide cannot possibly be the same as religion, they do both share some concepts in common, but not many yet someone will tell you for instance they are a "Christian" and a "Certified Counselor with a master's in psychology", my advice to them clearly pick one or the other title to have.

If you didn't see purpose to life, you could not see anything to life. Not through sadness, but just loss of purpose and not seeing a better future for you since you are not satisfied with your life at all where you lack any sort of hobbies in life. You've already read over 20 books, have been to colleges and got at least a C in the classes. What would be left for you? Your political party you "love" so can your favorite football team, you no longer care, you no longer want revenge on the democrats who message you all day. Now, you want the democrats to win, maybe they will bring you the purpose you are looking for, you certainly have pondered this, and you are more than willing to correct this "mistake" you had made, purpose is worth more than a political party we can all agree, this cost is nothing for a guy like you. You have all day to explore and travel, yet you choose not to. This wouldn't happen though; you'd be smart enough not to own a gun.

I think the term "conspiracy theorist" is out of use, it is not an insult like I remember it back in 2012 I think when talking about presidential elections and articles put out about the president you did not want to win. I know Alex Jones is called it, but that was years ago we are talking like 4 years. People love conspiracies of any kind, there was a college course on them. Alex Jones is called a member of the "far right" or "alt right" now. The google images that come up for "conspiracy theories" seem to be more like trying to wake someone up, not so much an insult on them, if it were an insult, not much of one. Something weird, Alex Jones still sells all his "supplements" to "help" someone's health system. But his website "info wars", does not look "conspiracy" or "alt right" in any way, it just seems like a American conservative news outlet. It may not even be American conservative, it could literally be seen as unbiased when you read the headlines, but the headlines are there to sell the top news stories possible such as talking about the most controversial stories "info wars" can possibly fine.

This is how big of a jerk a guy like David Wood is. He claims to be a "Christian" who has a past where he almost killed his father. He talks about it a lot. He lives this "humble" life where he never commits any crime and society respect him like the police. But he flares Muslims all day with his channel, this is how. He will play the "good guy" and then he will say that he only wants to talk Muslims out of Islam by "exposing islam". He used to have a call show to talk Christianity with Muslims in a cordial manner, some of his other videos I saw from 10 years ago, I guess they were somewhat of an attack on Islam, but boy did it ever get out of hand with David. He will support anyone of any political party or religion that speaks against Islam and bring them on his channel. He now puts up comments intentionally from Muslims or either leave the faith and thank him for his videos on "Christianity". Or he will intentionally show comments from Muslims that are hate mail. David goes even further, he said "Muhammad said women are stupid that's according to the Quran and hadiths", David knows that most Muslims are not going to read. Yet David himself says none of what the Quran claims is believable, David wants his followers to repeat what he says making it far worse. David, if the Quran is not believable and you were the "good guy" as you have claimed, why would you ever call a woman "stupid" knowing very well most Muslims are not going to leave Islam? Do you have to insult people who believe Islam is a fact? But you claimed you were this "good, humble guy". As if you don't know no women wants to be called "stupid", yet you also accept that women are not going to leave the faith from your videos. David, you know if Islam was not believable in any way as you have claimed, you wouldn't have to insult the women in it and claim that you only want to "protect the Muslims" from the "evil" of Islam which you have tried so much to do. You clearly said David that none of Islam is believable, you know you don't have to jeer at people, heck you have already won, you claim 100% of Islam is false and that women are oppressed in a serious way! David is this seriously your understanding of “Christianity” given your large bookshelf behind you in your videos? Important

Is Muhammad seriously viewed as an Arab leader who gained victory claiming to speak to Allah? That he used previous scriptures to gain victory for his cause? Oh, the irony, Muhammad wants you to fact check his claims and convert you to Islam. Heck, Muhammad gives you lineages for the Prophets, tells the Quran is infallible, he gives you all these hadiths to work with, explains that there will be no other Prophet after him which he was correct about. It does not take 3 days to read all about Muhammad, the Quran, theology, laws of life etc. What if someone said “we cannot conclude if Muhammad spoke to a God that we cannot conclude exists or not. But we know one thing, he sure was convinced and so were his followers who formed the world’s largest empire with their Ummah, the Quran cannot be confirmed or denied thanks to science being in debate.” That’s a facepalm if accredited historians were to say that, I hope they don’t. If a historian said this or not, I could not tell ever if you were lying to me if you told this to me that you believed this that nobody could ever be all right if Allah exists or not and that Allah has Prophets. That’s a facepalm again.

David Icke, if you ever read this, you better believe that “lizard people” exist where they run the whole earth and only want to enslave all humanity. That’s not safe for society to believe. Don’t lie and say it is safe and will not cause a person to ever be concerned when you have shown you have gone public about this “discovery” you have made that you must share at all costs that a study done in 2013 by Public Policy showed that 4% of registered voters came forward to talk about this “discovery” made. I find this hysterical.

If George Washington believed in a god of some sort be it a freemason god where he was a “master of his lodge”, you don’t need more evidence than this and I can show you why. George Washington would have access to any book back in the year 1798. What more evidence would you possibly need? Think about it, the leader of America, the founder, the one with a plan to separate from the British Empire that conquered most of the earth. Going beyond that, George Washington was very smart. All these politicians praise him as the founder, yet so many people imply that he was “stupid” for being in support of slavery, that would mean he lacked all morals and could not understand anything to life. It is so hypocritical if you think deep about it that the leader that people praise, the politicians then say, “slavery being legal was the greatest evil America ever faced”, that makes your favorite American leader look lost! This is pathetic for politicians to do by the way.

There is a book written on George Washington's life that has over 920 ratings with a 5-star average, most importantly the book has over 900 pages in it on him! The writer of the book in fact is a good scholar for American history named Ron Chernow, I would gladly buy from him if I were interested in American history, Ron is no random person who has this "hobby" that few Americans care to hear about.

If I can say one "good" thing about "apostate prophet" on YouTube, he responds to me at times I think it has been 8 total from my comments. One of them he kind of laughed at. The other 6 he got upset at in some way. At least he will respond to what he finds "ridiculous" at what Muslims claim when we defend Islam against his videos on his channel. That means he cannot possibly be in the lowest tier. I will say this, he must truly hate Islam. I've watched all his videos for over 3 years it has been, I don't know what it is, I can't figure it out where he spends all day trashing the religion. You know if you believe my description of him, he is not just doing this for "fame", a "job", make fun of Muslims all the listed reasons, there is something so deep he doesn't go much into detail about. He has stated in a video, he does not like one thing about Islam when asked if there was one thing between the Quran and hadiths in a two-minute video saying "no" to the question. You know, this guy cannot take it when a scholar defends Islam against him. He goes to this extent.

If you are a Sunni Muslim and you claim on the internet that Shia Muslims are "schizophrenic", take my word here, do not do this ever again! It is not for you to say, and it is not a joke of some kind since we both know, you do not like Shia Muslims. I get it, you want them to be Sunni like you and you feel you make a great case for Sunni Islam which you will debate with a Shia for hours to make them be a Sunni. Take my word again, stop! Important

You dress as nicely as possible, you are becoming a cop (yikes!), you care a lot about politics, you buy the nicest truck you can find, but you get mad when somebody criticizes a group home for potentially getting animals. You say you have the problem under control, and it is not my business at all despite me living here and you know the staff does not care. You work at a place they can't even hire 2 employees they need only after 6 months of searching, the wages are bad, there's no improvement and now you claim it is your choice if you want to improve or not, you make sure to always claim you care about everyone here. You do not tell someone when cleanliness matters because you are the leader, and you get mad when being told how to do your job sir.

What I have learned in life that I am glad to share, I have heard actual injustice stories done to people where they lost their lives trying to do the right thing for any loved one. Their stories will always be lost because of activism. There is so much activism in society today. Activism, no matter what, will always be about the person doing it under the disguise of wanting what is best for society. I have met plenty of black lives matter supporters that do not care in any way if you were to die by cops, unless if you were in black lives matter, yes, yet they will tell you that they only want what is best for society. Every tweet that Shaun King puts out about injustice, it will always be about a minority in America, yup. How someone's death can be viewed in the same manner as protests for climate change under the claim that the world will end with climate change protesters who protest as much as possible, I haven't a clue. I find this to be sad. Important

The hadiths tell you about rape with a woman, the word used in the hadith is "overpowered" for what happened to the woman. If someone were to claim that the people of Lot committed "rape", the Quran would use the word in this regard "the people of Lut tried to overpower Lut and the Angels". Whatever the people of Lut did be it homosexual acts and or orgies or both where they clearly were open about discussing this with each other the whole village, the Quran would tell you outright it was rape. I am not saying that it wasn't male rape, but to claim it has nothing to do with being openly gay in some way, I can't help but type this, just shut up. Do not argue this with me ever since you clearly support anything the lgbt does in your name and tell me I am not a real Muslim. Important

One thing that could happen it is 50-50 for me is that between the world ending and the "stress" caused by most people. Instead of the prison and psych ward workers just quitting and leaving the people in the jails and psych wards, what they will do is release every single one of them, this will be done lighting fast where everyone is running out of a jail or psych ward and people are trampled where they will die from it where they are rushing to leave to go to the streets. I will say this will happen to every psych ward and jail, at the very least, 35% of them worldwide. Remember, the last thing some worker wants to do, is let people starve in a jail or psych ward where no one will possibly attend them, they do not want to be responsible for something horrific like that in any way no matter if they hate every inmate in there or the prison guards really get along with most of the inmates. At the psych wards, the workers will let them out, I could almost count on that, but the jails are really your choice what would happen from each jail. Important

There is irony in this where since the police and FBI fail to put you in jail for 20 years, what they will try is to put you in a psych ward for your views that they do not tolerate. However, the psych ward will not keep taking you. It would only really be a few times in 25 years. They won't keep trying and trying to target you, the police and FBI have such a huge list of people's lives they want to ruin that they refuse to even bother with you anymore (yet so many people claim a mental illness in America). This is what happened to me. If I was the only person in Milford they hated, they would spend all day each shift targeting me alone, but they did not at all do this. Important

I don't know about CNN, but Fox News does a phenomenal job with their news. I can't watch it much anymore, but their producers know what you want to hear, what the hosts are supposed to discuss, what to disagree one. Heck, they even have "the five" which is their own version of TMZ. They even know how to get hate from leftists which they host leftists who fox news cannot stand the most. It always seems like they have new flashy headlines for their viewers daily. I am so impressed by this no this is not sarcasm in any way. I don't know what year they got so good at it after I remember in 2009, I think the American conservative party was in trouble because their views wouldn't be updated to serve modern Americans. No one could have seen Fox News booming to this extent!

It amazes me how the American government knows do not hit the "nuke button" for Iran. Maybe the American government thinks their false messiah will not come because I cannot think of any other reason why they wouldn't since the zionists clearly are not winning the wars. The zionists have no "5-year plan" guaranteed to work they know this. Even for a government like America, maybe it takes an amount of boldness that a president like trump does not have. We don't know the conversations Donald Trump has with the zionists unfortunately because then we the public would know for sure. Important

Never take someone's cigarettes out of their hand and throw them on the ground trying to get them to quit smoking. This will upset anyone despite them knowing your ambitions. This is another law of life, but you will hear "some people like when you do this." Important

Do the children of Israel not want the biggest, best material they can get? Look at how they keep upgrading their homes. Granted there was the Soviet Union apartments people had wanted and not capitalism with homes. Now capitalism is worldwide. It is clear by now which of the children of Israel got this right since after all, in today's generation people can choose to embrace socialism and downgrade from homes to apartments with their families if they so choose through election, yet the citizens will not. Even the Soviets wanted nice things and wanted to travel the earth regardless of

if the country was capitalist or not. They may have insulted the rich claiming the rich wanted to steal from the poor. They all wanted to be part of the nomenklatura. The Soviets were just insulting the rich to believe they were better than the rich and create nationalism. The Soviets clearly preferred the worldly life. To sum up, the Soviets just wanted to look down on the rich. The Soviet Union would have collapsed in the social media era since it would not get much clout being an atheistic republic. It collapsed just in time before religious people could have taken it over and ran most if not all the former Soviet Union countries.

Do not say controversial things for more than an hour a day, this will stress you out overtime.

Just keep claiming psychology when talking about controversial subjects that you study psychology. This will bail you out a lot.

A generation will come along when they do not know when to walk away and leave a conversation ever thinking they must win against their greatest enemy which is liberals or American conservatives. This means the conversations on the internet forums will last for almost a day over the slightest disagreement in conservatism, this goes beyond someone disagreeing over someone being liberal when they are conservative. What was once a joy of a discovery to talk to someone in America or around the world about your conservatism for hour and hour alone in your apartment where the dialogue is near flawless will become the worst nightmare one can possibly imagine for dialogue. Important

I credit Iran here; they have to pay for the best professionals they could ever get of their own Iranian citizens to watch every single thing the U.N. tries to push on them. Iran has to sign some of it I think for their image or citizens or heck to stay in the U.N. However, Iran must read so carefully the material put out that is designed solely to end their country for good through influencing their public for instance being lied to through the U.N. that Iran wants to nukes when they have made no such effort to acquire nukes ever. I don’t know how often the U.N. does this, but I can imagine it is a good amount of these international treaties (?) where they must simply tell the U.N., “No we will not be signing this, possibly in the future when it is updated”. Yet Iran as we know has no such intent to ever sign something so ridiculous the U.N. puts out for the purpose alone to end the Iranian government. I can only imagine the schooling these professionals who work for Iran must have to go through to be certified by Iran to do such, I wonder how big the team is where it is 8 Iranians or maybe even 500 Iranians or even 2,000 Iranians where they must all work together and be in agreement since this job does not sound easy in any way possible. If it were 2,000

Iranian professionals, can you imagine the payroll dedicated for this job alone?! Important

How to get under someone’s skin every time and I have seen it, always mention their children, it will work on anyone if not eventually if you keep talking about it with them. This will work like you cannot imagine on the parent with their child. What you say to them is that their child is a failure or that their child needs serious help to go to a psych ward. The psychology books without even reading them I know will tell you that this is no big deal to insult someone’s children when they are with their parents whom you do not like, wonder who got this one right. Important

You can take an Asperger’s test in person past age 22. Purposely fail the test, join the Asperger’s community and talk about Asperger’s awareness in society and how it needs to be better understood and people need to understand you as a person better. When we know, you clearly failed whatever test they gave on purpose yet the professional giving the test gave no care at all that you graduated with a master’s degree and make over 60k a year at your job. People in America do tell you that you have this, I had someone tell me this once that I thought was my friend at the gym. If you want, take it to the extreme and study someone with Asperger’s and emulate it like the South Park episode with Eric Cartman trying to join the special Olympics to make money except unlike the show you will be doing this for life. Be sure to emulate someone with Asperger’s who is unruly, and no one can possibly deal with it. You might laugh every single time at this, but I trust that you personally will not laugh as much in a few years.

FBI if you ever read this, why did you meet up with the autistic 18-year-old for something he posted on the internet when you do all these background checks on people before talking to them and it takes a while for you to visit people? What sense does this make when also you clearly knew he went to a psych ward meaning he can never own a gun a day in his life? The autistic teens best friend revealed this story for me, you went to the group home to talk to him clearly about something. He came from Russia years ago I think legally so he may have been audited as an illegal immigrant, but that sure doesn’t sound it at all. FBI, I hope this is the only mistake you have ever made on one of your citizens who is dedicated to your American country since this looks awful for you that the taxpayers paid for you to audit him, yet you have FBI agents who think they are so smart when I argue with them.

If you are “religious” and you are “religious” as a way to show off to the public claiming you are a Christian. How am I ever going to believe you that religion is correct? All you did was say that religion is for benefit only which is the opposite of Islam. This is a serious question, no sarcasm intended by it. Important

I'd be interested to ask someone who watches Fox News for more than 2 hours a day, how much news do you need? Do you need to know every headline possible? I am asking if I am not making fun of someone like that.

A nurse at a waiting room confirmed that it is always the same people going back. She told me it has already gotten out of hand. I can only imagine. She also told me the world is "getting crazier". I'd agree with that so much so. Important

Because they were so passionate for their "cause" where they keep fighting people going to protests and ranting on their smart phones with people who disagreed with them, they forgot how great their life really was how great their memories were, all they wanted was more and more. Because all they wanted was for their voice to be heard in society, they were left with nothing but 2,000 followers on Twitter who aren't their friends in real life. Worst of all, American conservatism, blm didn't win in America, both sides still existed their whole lives. This means they lost completely at what they did. Important

If you jeer at people and you say horrific things to people in public, you are never supposed to be sectioned ever. The cops are not supposed to ever come. A worker in a waiting room confirmed this for me. Important

I opened the door to the ambulance and sat in the stretcher. Between the cops and medical workers, they said nothing at all where they could not care less that they are supposed to walk me in. I also got them to use their sirens to go in front of other cars. Officer Jason Atchue of North Grafton, the guy gives people trouble for not doing exactly what he wants immediately and then makes a face of assurance that he's doing the "right thing" when you mention Islam to him, here I was giving him the directions this time. This is hysterical to me. Important

I picked up quickly that I do not need to know more about ethics. There isn't so much to be learned to get along with everyone you meet.

Take my word that the more hurt you show, the more clashes you have, it gets so much worse you don't even know. If you have so much hatred in you, the Ummah. You will forget their suffering in place of your own, solely accidental. Iran must know for a fact that if hatred of America gets out of control, the entire country will turn to chaos and will not have a functioning economy since no one can focus on their job.

A law of life- everyone takes offense if you criticize the job they work and/or how well they do the job.

You're not supposed to ever learn religion at home with books written by independent authors with dedicated websites to understand scripture where you message religious people through the internet, you are always supposed to learn under and Imam, Priest, Rabbi etc. Guess who learned religion on their own? Important

Load up on as much college debt as possible since you will never be approved for a mortgage ever since you will never be middle class. However, you have to attend these courses and you cannot fail 5/5 courses. Go to the most expensive college you can find. However, this is very time consuming and not recommended, only if you want to do this go ahead.

Anyone who calls Iran a "fascist" country and supports America, your country needs this "fascism" so bad it is not even funny anymore, it is embarrassing for you given what I have shown the public.

Why won't the cops press charges against famous YouTube pranksters who get kicked out of Walmart and record everything the cop tells them where it is clear they are messing with the police? The police must think that they are right to do such, but it is the cops that look dumb here considering a prankster keeps wasting their time.

Because we humans make it to 80, you can bet that Social Security won't pay out to the elderly having no money in it.

You will see ambulance after ambulance to keep bringing patients to waiting units and psych wards. That isn't a society, that's something you would see in a parody movie. Nobody could have imagined this in America. Important

You can use the hour with a therapist to trash someone who hurt you in the past. The therapist may change the subject, but you can just change the subject back to be about you claiming you need help to get past your past that is no longer causing you stress.

The news of the world ending which people will have on all day long will cause people to crash and not be able to get back up.

Louie CK comedian- "it is a fun soothing sport to get offended", I couldn't agree more with this. Most people want gossip and drama. They don't take things personal you tell them, yet they send off this vibe that they do. I trust Louie CK here since he reads his fans and people who don't like him the comments he gets. Louie also wants people to stop trying to look for the one person who gets offended. I also cannot understand this at all. Important

Do you know what is amazing in all this? I was the guy on YouTube a year after it opened with an account looking for video game reviews of old games and positive reviews of new games. You would think after 14 years of media daily where I was on top of it that I would be the one to want attention the most. I'm showing a big opposite by my actions and words. Maybe I am the lucky one having learned the lesson that even a decent amount of fame is not worth it.

A worker at a psych ward went to a Luke Bryan country concert in New Hampshire. He told me all the people who went to it were wasted and smoked weed. This means they didn't even go for the music there. I spoiled your fun.

You cannot wish for a friend for them to get the "most attractive woman", you yourself will be jealous of this friend of yours. This is proof to me that religion is correct that we as servants of Allah, we only want the best we can ever get.

How to be a horrible person- ask someone if they are suffering and going through a hard time in a calm voice to harass them when in an argument with them.

If men are guardians of women like the Quran states, wouldn't it only make sense for a man to have as many wives as possible? To protect as many women as they can, this makes complete sense to me. Men want to have more and more sons and daughters which they are permitted an infinite number of children. To get the number higher well he will have more wives (common sense). Think of how many guys in America have so many girls' numbers despite having a girlfriend already. It will always be in the back of a man's mind to have more wives whether they know they are allowed to or not. What I am trying to say here is in America you can only have one wife, yet in the man's mind he wants more regardless of how he says his values based on his Bible analysis which he claims allows for him to only have one. Women want the biggest man. The biggest man has the most wives. In monogamy, every man gets a woman. It's an invention of men who don't want to compete for women. The best man can get the best and the greatest number of wives. But it's a secret.

You get this sense Allah's angels want only what is best for the Ummah, that they want to protect us Muslims. Important

In Eminem's song "rap god" which has 1.2 billion views, at least a portion of his viewers think Eminem is a "god" that Eminem went public about, scary. Polytheism will emerge worldwide from senseless fans of rappers such as

Eminem and Drake who claim to be “god’s”. Their fans will believe anything! Important

For believers that want to meet the Prophet they love the most be it Abraham, Moses, Jesus, or Muhammad, whether you are Jewish, Christian, Islamic, you will weep and weep while you are speechless. Every believer will be like this for their efforts to be a good person.

If inflation for food caused food to go up by 12%, the country does not have the money for all this mental health funding. Important

So many religious people of any religion are only “religious” for money and status. They have tattoos, but when reveals it is if they wear a diamond necklace of a cross, they know what they are doing. I’ve met plenty of people like this, it took me years to realize this! They neither care nor care about suffering, they don’t see suffering of people of any faith. They are mature, but they just don’t care at all. They want people to be any faith and they do not care if someone forced them to leave Christianity for instance. This is a huge reason why preaching always failed on at least 70% of the public. One of them said I was "so annoying" when I preached for over an hour. They won’t let you join their conversations about the Bible because they don’t want to hear about Palestine, it is because they don’t trust you to not get angry talking about Palestine, these people in no way want trouble of any kind and do not wish anyone’s suffering on the earth. You can’t talk religion because then the assumption is you talk about religion all the time. The public thinks everything you say has a bias of some kind. They also think you will keep telling them again and again the same material, if you were to mention something new, the assumption is that you are just going to bring up material you already told them. Important

When you condemn Saudi Arabia, they will call you an “extremist” claiming you do not want peace when you say, “Saudi Arabia is a terrorist nation”. People may not call you an extremist for saying that, but in their minds they think you are, so you can’t go beyond saying that. Important

We cannot talk about religion or politics in the workplace, but we can talk about Elon Musk all day. Is Elon above religion and politics? By this description, Elon seems like an idol.

Someone told me when I am so serious and honest all the time, it comes off as “funny”, that means I cannot reach most of humanity. I am speechless by this, there is only so much you can do.

The clinician who I didn’t get along with gave me the best advice ever, she said “it’s not your problem” when talking about the group home how it would get far worse without me being there and it did. This is excellent advice to never worry about anything you are not at all responsible for.

A former marine told me the marines are handed a mini-Bible and the marines can got to nightly Bible study there, a little too late for that America by a marines age of over 18.

You can join the military, but you must hide for instance if you went to a psych ward. With the police if you were ward, the police will know if you apply to them, and they will never let you join ever.

Buddhists believe meditation gets their followers in touch with their “spirit”. There is no evidence for this at all. You would take the Buddhists words who claim mediation works and that you are in some way meditating wrong like they Buddhists will tell you every time.

how desperate someone must be to claim there is no purpose to life but there is a hereafter for them. This would mean buddhists believe there is purpose to life to get to their hereafter, sigh.

Dialogue with people in America is either all functional or all dysfunctional. All rational conversations or no rational in dialogue. Important

One lesson I learned in life is that you are not being a “fraud” or a “trick” when you try to work with people who don’t agree at all with you where both parties clearly use each other. This works 100% of the time, just do what is code, you will never fail. Be as cordial as possible and tell them they do a great job, which is true but in other areas they do a horrific job you just never bring it up. It really is that easy to avoid being a critic of someone you disagree with so much.

The day when executing an openly gay person is viewed as “religious extremism” by the entire earth, that is the day when the world will end. Important

People either never want to be offended nor get criticism where they are too sensitive. Or they hate other religious communities enough to let an openly gay person claim to be Muslim (Blogging Theology Paul Williams). I am wondering why an Imam would not be upset at something like this, or why they are so silenced when they bring this up.

The professionals in psychology prefer psychology books because the Bible never changes. But it isn’t a clear one over the other, one is just more favored than the other.

I am very artistic and creative since art is considered a skill and my skill is writing books on subjects and my imagination would be for instance describing End Times. Yet I am so terrible at drawing, and I only own books, no posters, no kitchen design or anything. I don't write these books to be viewed as "art" and "creativity", they are for people who care about morality and knowledge! Important

A holocaust denier is not viewed as mentally ill by the public. You may or may not lose some friends over it. So really not much backlash for that. However, with Islam, you can bet on it you will be viewed as mentally ill.

Some woman told me she didn't know if religion was right or not, but she said "oh god" in the next sentence for something difference, what a clown she is. I would love to ask her "so where did you get that phrase you just said from?". It gets even worse, she told me for months "there is a slight chance god exists", later she said, "I didn't say that"!

Something odd, conspiracy theorist is not an insult any more or if it is it isn't a serious accusation it's more like a casual insult. I wonder when and why it changed.

Do not have this view of life where you are all hated, and everyone is all liked since they go along with everything. It's not true and I will explain why. People are still hated that support the lgbt, America etc. You may not see the hate they get, but they get hate. You may be called extremist, far right, bigoted, goyim, dumb, fascist etc. These people still get hated, you just don't see or hear about it. They are hated by the far left, far right, people who support what you do etc. You just get the most hate by far of any group you could possibly be. Israel as I have shown gets more hate than we Muslims could ever. Important

This is what I think happens. People's IQs aren't high enough so they cannot wish good on the earth. They can't find an injustice and find the solution to the injustice. So, the earth to them is always satisfactory no matter what since the earth to them their source of happiness is found in music or politics etc. Important

If you were to say, "I don't know" to religion, or "I am a Christian", here is my response- you do know your beliefs enough to tell me that I too should be an "I don't know" or a "Christian", you are pushing your beliefs on me. When you say, "I don't know everything about the Bible", you clearly know enough to have a view that you feel others should have. When you say "I don't know" you concluded the evidence was enough to conclude that. What you didn't realize, the Quran says, "a book in which there is no doubt", yet you told me I should have doubt, then you did something cowardice to either confuse or talk me out of it. You wanted me to have doubt in my religious beliefs, yet when I showed confidence, you wanted me to doubt my beliefs with your own. If you are in doubt, don't tell anyone don't talk about religion, respond with "I don't want to talk about religion I am not qualified". This is another trick Mikhaila Peterson tried here but that's already been addressed where she started talking about religion for hours in an interview after claiming that. Important

If you notice this, no job will make you smarter, it wouldn't be a job then. One job I can think of would be the "job" that the hero Qasem Soleimani worked. The only other job would be a politician, that's all I could think of nobody can be a politician the odds are strong against you. Even a schoolteacher learns the same material except for college professors who teach new courses as new material for them each semester. That would be my dream job.

Try to get someone on your good side, get them to like you even if they hate you and they are your coworker for instance. Keep trying and trying to make sure they don't think that you are trolling them or are trying to use them for favors during work. It makes like a lot more fun and less drama and conflict. if you do hate someone, don't bother. If you dislike someone, try to like them. Just try this, having been at group homes where they never give up on you, it is fun to do this.

If you don't keep speaking the second language daily, you lose your ability to remember it unless you are very smart. Someone taught me this happened to her.

Because as I have proven people lie about their religious and political beliefs in America and they get away with it when caught meaning they don't go to jail or even a psych ward, you do not have to trust one person in America this includes your own family which I have lost family members over their insane beliefs. We don't know how many people in America do what the percentage is, but it matters not. Important

Unlike most of what I type, I do not have a visual for this- they teach lies and deceit in the schools and media. They pass it off as either fact or opinion to be shared where they have so many opinions on gun control for instance. What they then do is try to change the subject on you when you are right as if you want to argue with them, that's not debate. Heck their debates go on for like 10 minutes on Fox News for serious issues.

This is how stupid people really are- they think they've made a great discovery that gay marriage must be legal in their country where somehow it is in the best interest of the country and past generations simply could not understand. They go to these pro-gay rallies all excited which their college professors told them to go to. Everything backs it up, science, nature really anything. They also believe that it is no issue at all to be openly gay, if you are to take offense to it, you are in the wrong which they can shove in your face. It gets far worse, all these “religious” groups back them up claiming religious verses. All these pro-gay people are “oppressed” and are “victims” by society they believe until gay marriage is made legal. Because of stupidity, I have to live under this. It confirms what Muhammad said, a believer’s prison and a disbeliever’s paradise. Important

There should be no minimum wage, think about it. Don’t you trust employers to pay enough money? You are very pro-American you fly a flag in my face all the time. Are you going to tell me politicians and America can be trusted but employers cannot? To go deeper, what worker will work for $5 an hour, do the leftists seriously think the wages will go that low without a minimum wage? The wages would be lower, but not by much. Instead of 14 an hour, it would be 12, not catastrophic.

If you are a bit upset about something, get outraged about it to find out why you are angry and if it is justified or not to be a bit upset. Doing this will give you the truth as to why you are angry about something, but you have to been keen with it and it may hit you quick in a 30-minute outburst. This doesn’t always work, however.

If you ever blow your cover, just say “it was a bad day, it happened, I don’t really feel that way”. Within a year, they will think you have changed, and you were just angry during your outburst which revealed stuff about you. They think you take things to seriously. The more information you give about yourself, it makes them move past your outburst. They don’t want to view you that way. If they think you are not consistent with your views and you hide these books good from them, you win. Politicians and Fox News hosts do this all the time! Important

If you never complain, no one can get you for any flaw in your character. Must have been party of the reason why Muhammad said he complains only to Allah.

Muhammad wanted to live the best life that he was allowed to religiously. With his wives, they were each different from one another. Not only were all the wives beautiful, charitable with their times, but they were also from different tribes meaning different perspectives and different experiences. This means Muhammad was very ambitious. However, we don’t know what jobs the wives worked except for Aisha she was a teacher during or after Muhammad’s death.

Do you notice how in all religions, it speaks of love from religious leaders and God(s) and good ethics? This may be the foremost reason why people are most inspired in their religious beliefs.

When you spend more time with people, you develop a connection with others, just life advice there.

This is a law of life that when you give common sense advice to someone and they argue with you, you are in the right to get upset or bothered by it provided it is something basic of common-sense advice and not something debate worthy. Important

If they sell ‘third” temple t shirts you can buy I kid you not, be sure to buy one. I find this hysterical.

The trick they try is they say Muhammad, Allah more so Jesus blesses every nation of the earth. Yet I know Allah would never support the actions of Israel and America. Important

It wouldn’t matter that they cannot identify mental illness at a young age because people keep claiming it in masses anyways, that is devastating both ways. Important

I don’t know if the smartphone is making people dumb. I have mixed feelings about this my answer is both yes and no for everyone.

People instead of venting they blame you for everything wrong in their life. They even claim a mental illness to feel good about themselves. It is sad, I know.

They question if you are competent if you put your name to Islam or Christianity when you are correct not to support gay marriage, this is catastrophic for today’s first world countries. Important Because women are told they are treated as “stupid” or “worthless” by society by college professors, they are lured into feminist groups every year I don’t know the percentage of women who join for that reason, women are only 19 in college, so they go to it where their brain is not fully developed yet to decide. They are told that they are being “liberated”, who doesn’t want to be “liberated”? In fact, many psychology degrees in the US require all people to take one gender studies course or a feminist course of some kind so they have to listen to it for at least an hour a day 3 days a week and do homework for it. Because they want to impress the professor with a high grade, they take the course very seriously which I have seen in my business courses. It gets worse, because women want to sell their material for gender studies, they have to identify as a “feminist”. All men and women of any belief can be a feminist so the feminists will try to reach anyone.

People in their minds think you are their slave, and you are to serve them, it would only figure a set of beliefs are written like that known as talmudism. Maybe that shows it is false by default where someone just wrote it out themselves, we know Prophets didn’t write it by now. Important

I support corporal punishment for children provided it is not done outside. There is zero evidence it traumatizes a child.

In America and Israel, you can backbite as much as you so please, no charges will be pressed against you, oh joy.

They have “disturbing the peace” as a reason for calling the cops, yet disturbing what peace? They have bars where transgenders strip dance in front of child. Is that the peace America wants for its citizens?

America as I have shown has no direction as of 2022. When people say America is the greatest country in the world, I don’t know what that means. Important

The professionals say it depends on the person for if they are aggressive, not understanding what claim after claim does to someone. We have yet to see what all this slander will do to a society since it will go higher and higher. It could corrupt a youth’s character, we don’t know.

I can’t imagine how frustrating it would be to be a Prophet where people tell you that you are wrong, and they are willing to correct when they are wrong, yet they have no intent of correcting what they do or say whatever when it comes to religion.

Live and let live they will tell you to push their agenda of accepting all people.

What people do is they change the subject every time you are right, they are experts at it. They say “I”M more than willing to learn from my mistakes”, ok well you didn’t there.

In their minds, so much of what goes on in the world is politics. They want to be neutral to everything, but it doesn’t work that way. Plenty of youth don’t want to put their names on anything as if they are somehow above it all. They say every country has things to improve on, they don’t want to see the country they trade with collapse, they always want partnership. This is under the disguise of “pro-democracy" They will call me a nationalist. No, the person has no values, is not consistent, and has no direction in life. Important

Fox News, CNN, MSNBC, have shown time and time again they don’t care about their political party winning, all they care about is their “third” temple which will grant them their political party to reign victorious forever. This is pathetic. Important

Because for instance Saudi Arabia gets elected every year, the neutrals/populists support Saudi Arabia thinking the citizens want it completely overlooking the Shia's how they are treated. They want to be allies with other nations, so they try to see good in Saudi Arabia. They only deal with problems in their own country. Because of this, all the injustice keeps getting buried in place of new injustice that gets overlooked. Important

Do you notice how all religions promise a utopia for a Hereafter? Therefore, no one will leave their beliefs no matter what. Not many people convert to Islam convinced as I am of the faith. It is so rare Christians convert to Islam, yet the two faiths are so similar. How could I have overlooked the utopia aspect for so long? Important

Do you notice the groups who attach their name to the president have gotten far worse like antifa and white nationalist groups where years ago they would never?

There is no medium in America of things you cannot say and things you should not cancel out. It is just a melting pot of bad ideas of extremes.

People will say or do anything to get fame in the world today provided they do not get canceled for it.

What percentage of the public goes along with anything their country does? I wonder this.

Most people turn to politics because they are miserable, or they are angry.

In the future people will get very angry about lgbt how it is defined where both the left and the right in America want it to play a certain role how big in America is the spar. Remember, America has no direction at all. Neither side has any sort of talking points in this, both sides look equally wrong, yet they will spar and spar over it.

There will be more and more religious pastors that let followers get away with anything.

People do things because they want to fit in. They want to impress others as well, look at the cars they drive and their bumper stickers, they want to be known.

People make the same mistakes when it comes to relationships where all they look or in someone's looks and not personality. Divorce rates will never improve. Lawyers will make more and more money fighting it out in court for divorces.

Your mind keeps playing tricks on you that there is a better life out there when there isn't. Important

If men are supposed to be able to run a household to get married to a woman, that's got to be a law of life.

I have to go to a college to understand all the senseless ideas people are being taught because I can't just ask people.

Society will just keep chasing the same material previous generations had short term joy with. This same material will be marketed differently to make it seem more appealing when it is the same material. Important

Saudi Arabia gets away with this because when people support Yemen they don't know what is going on. They claim to support the Yemeni people but do not pick a side. They have no clue Saudi Arabia goes against Islam nor do they care. They think supporting the Yemeni people consists of reposting what is happening but not understanding why to support Yemen over Saudi Arabia when the Yemeni people need our support against Saudi Arabia completely overlooking the fact Saudi Arabia has a puppet regime installed because a portion of Yemeni people want the Saudi puppet regime. How can someone be so confused that they cannot pick a side for Yemen, but they will take Ukraine's side? Important

I wonder if people in the future will be fair minded. Will they be able to put thought into how to treat others? Will they understand they will not get everything they want? Will they demand things that no generation has asked for? Can they accept others' beliefs? Will they understand that they have to move on? I am 50-50 on this.

Because people think I want attention for what I "discovered", influence, and I want to talk about what I want to talk about, I couldn't get one person to convert to Islam. Ironically, I have no claim over religion, Islam is about us as individuals what we do for the religion, not to talk about yourself. In these people's minds, they figure they already care about humanity, yet they support America causing their own suffering and they claim the world won't end the way Islam describes. It wasn't that people didn't like Islam; it was that they liked themselves too much they wouldn't change who they are. Another thing too is that they look at everything unbiasedly. For example, someone I met did not like Ben Netanyahu at all, however the next prime minister of the zionists he will give a chance without holding anything against the zionists for electing Ben Netanyahu meaning the zionists get unlimited chances with him. People don't want to talk about religion or the world’s suffering because it upsets them too much, so you cannot inform them. They say they love all perspectives, what this tells me is they value all perspectives the same they just love their own perspective, you cannot give them support of Palestinians and being right, they don’t want that where a whole country has your back. This is the best example where they don’t want to be involved at all, not to word that to condemn them but to show this is in no way part of their lives. Let’s say you could talk them into converting to Islam, they will just say “well I support all countries and I respect that you support Palestine and not Saudi Arabia”, it goes over them how the sauds works for the zionists. Just by the way they say God’s name Allah it shows they don’t think Allah is the same God as the Old Testament that Arabian culture is so different from the Bible. To go further the Prophets aren’t the same, that Allah is a God that they don’t feel they know enough about. When you preach to them, they think you are messing with them because they clearly don’t want to support Palestine. It doesn’t matter how much you give to people their answers are simple as to why they don’t support Palestine. Yet all these commentators give all this information. It shows the majority of people not only do not want to get involved and also are not serious when they say they are against Palestine. Picking Palestine or the zionists isn’t even on their list of what their values are. People either don’t care or don’t do the research in America where they put no effort in seeing no reason to study about Palestine. Even if you gave people all the facts it just wouldn’t matter to them, they would just move on. They feel it bears no relevance. I had one lady from Uganda when I was talking about the wahhabs she just immediately ignored me making this ugh face, if I were to talk about the Ugandan genocide, I must support her views for her to want to talk about, she won’t debate whether their President is a killer or not. It’s solely up to them, they don’t want your support if you support Palestine, and they choose to. People won’t even bother to question your claims, they just hear them and say that’s interesting cool you believe it. People will gladly support Palestine; they will never quit on America. Because most in society view everything as gray you can’t tell them Palestine (the West Bank) is all correct in what they do. People believe the zionists deserve their “only” state. The only thing you could possibly tell someone is that Islam will bring them a more fulfilling life, they will not listen to this. They don’t want to be part of the Ummah. They want to make the decision for themselves, everyone on the earth does. When talking about Islam, they worry the conversation will be heated talking about religion, this includes talking about the doubts they may have. When you ask them if miracles exist, they will tell you they personally believe in miracles but that miracles could not exist. The reason why I bring this up is because they believe every religion can perform miracles any person could throughout history. It is about the miracle and not the religion, they couldn't be more wrong about this. Because people have been proven to lie about miracles, they say Muhammad could have been lying about performing miracles. They don't think the Quran is a miracle from Allah because they say it can be it may not be. They will only talk about practices along with wisdom and how religion impacts your life positively. They tell you that they follow the religion of their parents, this is 100% false, they are skeptical of the religion. They believe all religions aspire for peace, no chance convincing them there what is going on. One thing they do that I truly don't understand is that they never convert to Islam in their lives nor try the Islamic faith, yet they say they need an experience to be a Muslim. What if to get this experience you had to try to be Muslim? Once you mention the wars Muhammad fought, they will look at you like you are off. It is clear they don't care for the facts; they know all the theories and will not try to dispute one over the other acting as if all theories are correct when one theory is clearly a fact in this scenario. What people believe is that because you are Muslim in America you are supposed to believe such and such. If you were Muslim in the Middle East than you can believe such and such an example being against talmudists and wahhabs. Because you are a Muslim in America, you're supposed to be tolerant in America you're supposed to be tolerant in America of everyone and every belief, those are your brothers in faith to them. Because they don't want anything to do with Islam, I can't teach anyone. I am speechless typing this. Important

Americans have the same beliefs as Saudi's where older men with wealth marry younger women. The only difference America does is dating.

A feminist worker at a psych ward told me that men should have the right to cry and that women should make the same as men, that's something to rally behind (that's sarcasm, as if it matters). She was angry when I insulted her beliefs.

They talk about the same material with different examples on the news yet somehow, for instance Fox News grows every year. Important

The best country in the world's first goal is to end the earth, that doesn't make sense how it would be the best.

Most Americans would go along with Islam they just don't see the point to where they think Islam does not benefit them in any way. In American politics you have to tell voters what they want to hear. This means the Bible will never be voted in. Important

Because we are not grateful for life we will be jealous of everyone and everything. You will never appreciate anything in life. Important

The cost of a wedding goes up every year, yet most people pay the cost instead of finding cheaper alternatives.

More feminism more children raised in single family households. More women claiming abuse from ex husbands.

In society people protest and protest for their ideas when it turns out their ideas just get old overtime. Yet they still believe their ideas must be put in society as if it will create a utopia.

People don't want to grow up in society, that's why a website like onlyfans exists. They want to believe that they are worth something above everyone else both the women who upload the content and the guys who pay into it. History repeats itself with prostitution. Webcam models must pay taxes, that means the government can just shut them down if they wanted to. If it was happening under the table, who really cares about that point? The fact that there is no effort shows how this is global. A woman on onlyfans is not classy, innocent, and down to earth, she is a whore who portrays herself incorrectly. Onlyfans girls expect you not to talk about their photos in person. Yet they claim they are a model of some king. They are sluts who choose when you can and cannot talk about them naked. It's hypocritical.

Everyone wants the best in society. They always want to impress others. Important

One thing I find odd is that young adults want to keep controlling the "culture" of college campuses as if it needs to be left or right. Why does it matter to them? If you don't agree with what the college believes, either don't go to it or don't bother to have your voice heard. I only wanted my voice heard at times because I had thought the country would end by bad policies (yet it still functions to this day), a college professor can't influence you in any way spending 5 hours a day 3 days a week plus homework. You could just fake caring for the class you are in as if you are learning something. Just ignore the fact that the teachers don't want you to oppose it, they cannot do anything if you are sitting there, and you do the work. You're obviously not going to vote the way they believe.

Social norms will be the opposite of what they were historically.

Back in 2004, both the democratic and republican parties were the same. Now, they couldn't be more opposite on every issue except warfare.

The news is mixed with gossip, that is what the "news" is 95% of the time. This means society doesn't teach anything. Everything I found was in books. If you check out Megyn Kelly's and Jon Stewart's YouTube channels, it's all gossip. I did find some actual news of value, but it is always bad for society. I challenge someone to find me something I can learn from it. Important

Back in 2004, the two parties in America were the same, now they couldn't be more opposite.

Picture better for yourself than let go of past friends you had all the memories you had with them.

There is no more amount of knowledge than there was back in 1800 besides medicine.

People keep repeating the same allegations of "racist", "antisemite", "bigoted". They say it 1,000 times if you were to say one thing they disagree with.

The youth are not being told "no" for anything in life, so they end up more spoiled than previous generations making them incapable of working with. Take for instance Draymond Green, Mark Wahlberg, or Bubba Wallace. Important Because neither side can get their way in America, all the two sides do is fight over the next generation with schools and colleges over what they are taught. It's pathetic really. A possible solution is to have the schools and colleges teach no politics at all. Yes, they've lost the privilege in my mind.

When they teach race it isn't even knowledge it is silly there aren't even words for it. This sums it all up, the two sides fight over what they view as racism or defend their countries history, it is really embarrassing to talk about. No, I do not pick either side.

Back in the 70s it used to be shameful to be a stripper in your town. Now today there are so many women posting themselves naked on the internet and no one says or does anything about it.

Their life becomes too good for them that they protest over nothing at all.

Society cannot establish meaningful connections with people.

There can never be true Communism in society because someone will always have something better than what you have. There will always be jealousy in society.

People in society feel they have to prove themselves all the time in today's world. What will happen is more anger, more resentment.

The public will keep claiming hurt because they won't move on from friends or potential partners they meet because they are too sensitive. Yet it is so easy to move on from people.

People love being reinforced. I don't know what it is. That's part of the reason why people get married in today's world.

All posting on the internet does all the time is just making people angrier and angrier because they can't get their way with politics. It is inflating their ego's, it's making people jealous of one another, it makes them want more and more attention. To get attention they have to upload material that is activism of some sort.

You can see it where they keep trying to rally and rally people for a revolution of some kind. This has to cause something to happen eventually, we don't really know what though. They will always find new things to rally behind like Ukraine meanwhile they bring up old material like the capitol hill riots. Important

I notice how every day I want the same things out of life. Every day is the same for me. Yet I am told there is much more to life. You can't fight the want of the same things out of life every day. That could be a law of life, I am confident of it.

The goal is to be your "best self" yet that is a form of caring what others believe. The term "best self" sounds silly to me. What I noticed too is that they are the same exact workers at my group home that I met a year ago. Their views may have changed in a few political issues, but they are still the same person. Their speech is the same, their dialogue is the same as well. They tell you to seek more knowledge to better yourself. Your IQ can only go so high, books have such little in them. They will tell you that their experiences help them learn, yet they have the same exact experiences so nothing to learn from nor will they do differently. Important

Anything is considered escalating. They tell you to control the situation like some sort of leader. They don't accept there are situations you cannot control. What makes this so bad is you cannot teach someone a lesson they need by having multiple people yell at someone to show they are not reinforced by anyone in this entire earth, yet they will never learn. Important

Myself "I don't like the current prime minister of the zionists" responder "you have said that about every prime minister of the zionists." Myself "I know, but one could come along and lead the zionists incline towards justice, I never give up on them" (humor).

Realistically if you couldn't impress a woman when you knew her before you got married, how will it last on wealth and looks? You would just know most marriages would fail within the seven-year span. By then she won't see anything in you and want a new man, she can get another rich guy easily who looks better than you.

What I noticed is that people don't want good for themselves. It is clear they've tried it and it hasn't worked. When they are not satisfied, what they do is resort to more media, more spending, more attention getting, more drama. Instead of protesting, what they could do is have dialogue and divide states based on what they believe. It has become obvious to me that they just want to spar with each other. Within a villain, you cannot be a hero, ask Candace Owens she would know this well. I wish I could elaborate more on this because this is so deep. Important

Society isn't interested in your opinion at all, yet they will listen to you thinking it makes them a better, "caring" individual wasting their time listening.

How can you ever fall victim to the climate change scientists who try to convince you that your life isn't needed that the population must be lowered by over 94%? Without humans, there is no mankind. Suddenly, the scientists have discovered this. It costs too much money to implement and on top of that why would society listen? They will have big families they won't listen. Society will never go to a 1 child policy.

All these beauty standards for women will cause men to have standards for women that are too high. What it does is it makes men not settles down for a woman thinking they will get more beautiful women since all the guys want is to compete to get the most beautiful women that they see on the internet which they want a replica of. The men can't realize that doesn't exist. Women are guilty of this also. What the internet does is it keeps pushing women on you, society wants you talking about Kim Kardashians new photo or more sex related material of random women from the public.

One thing I learned about life is that you will never get empathy for anything outside of your friends and family. For instance, if you post Palestinian material of their suffering, the same people support the cause.

You may think you are a peacemaker; you are going to have to pick a side in the future of either America or Iran. Another side you may have to pick is Christianity or atheism or Islam. You may think everyone loves you, but they don't. Important

I feel bad for people who spend their whole lives chasing fancy material because they want to impress others or get an attractive wife. You put in all that work, you sucked up to the manager for material and a woman who doesn't even like you. This shows how the more you make the more you spend.

Sororities and frats are another silly thing people do, waste of time.

The problem with people is that they don't read things as critical towards other beliefs. They are tolerant of everything; they can't understand criticism. As I have stated before they are never critical of anyone or any idea besides racism.

No matter what you do it doesn't prove anything, most do not care. At least that's how I see it. Important

For some reason people think highly of you if you are rich but do not care at all if you are tough.

We all want to be respected in life; we all want to compete.

Someone told me that you don't need purpose to live life and that he had no purpose. He still has a purpose of having priorities such as family, working a job, friends, how he is perceived by others.

You already know this, but I have to be reminded that if people don't feel respected by their government or the other political parties then they will protest. They don't trust the media at all, only their political party who says the other side controls the media. That sign is probably the most alarming of all. That's what is happening in America, it will only worsen. Important Islam is viewed as ideas not as truths, Islam is truth.

I get that people must care about how they are perceived to some extent, but they care so much. Religion teaches you to humble yourself, that would be the opposite.

This is obvious but it took me forever to fully realize, if society doesn't work, of course people will protest. It's a matter of time before the world collapses. They won't understand that yes life has its challenges. No, you are not guaranteed success and joy. Important

Expect more people to compare America to nazi Germany or the Soviet Union. One side is nazi Germany the other is the Soviet Union. That's not a country, that's a battleground. It gets worse because America talks about how you have the most freedom in the world. The other side wants a totalitarian dictatorship to take away your freedom. Important

Society will just keep being informed on more serious news whether the news is fact or just speculation, it will stress people out.

We aren't even a nation anymore. We are just groups we represent like republican, democrat etc.

Women want attention more than men. Women are more emotional than men, they want stability. Women want a guy with a set amount of income, that is hard to find for the women. Marriage is a benefit for women. Yet all these women in today’s world want to date for years and years. It makes no sense when you think about it. Women are set up for misery in life. Obviously not all women are like this, but enough are to comment on this.

Most give horrible advice on the internet. Some give great advice; you wouldn’t know which ones give good advice unless you are above age 23 and have experienced life enough.

Because you don’t have status and fame you must be wrong with what you believe. Few will listen to you. They don’t care about what you believe. All they care about is their status, fame, and how they are perceived by others. All people want is their status at the best it can possibly be. Important

Today’s First world countries want to get rid of stigmas for everything. That’s not possible.

This is what I noticed that in today’s world more and more people want influence.

Society needs stability, it won’t find it in the future.

Given what I have shown you, it would show that today’s world needs gender roles, what they are doing isn’t working. Important

If people feel they cannot get their voice out in society where they feel censored, they will end their country. They don’t want to believe they play no role in a country they love and support so much. They won’t feel respected. Important

People either love or hate Muhammad, only some don’t mind. All other religious figures are hated by a few.

They will keep adding to respecting others through human rights making people’s demands higher and more difficult to respect people since it would require so many standards. They try making you be a part of it by saying “we all have human rights”, it is silly.

People will just speak higher and higher of themselves. As long as you show respect to others it doesn’t matter. Yet it is so alarming because people will feel entitled to things in the future. Important

You will either be used or will trash women in today’s environment. I watched a video where a guy said modern women don’t deserve a “high value man”. Red pill is just more party lifestyle clubbing which will be in the Middle East through Andrew Tate. I am not saying alcohol and clubbing is “bad”, but it will be abused in the future. Do you know how commercials say, “drink responsibly”? People won’t clubbing and drink responsibly. Red pill is convinced if they had money and an attractive woman all their problems would be solved. Red pill only cares about their status. Once this is done in full, all this red pill stuff is bound to backfire, it’s a new ideology. It believes in consumption and high status disguised as wisdom and self-growth. Andrew Tate makes money through webcam girls, casinos and the war room which is an online tutoring for men. Most of his money was from webcam girls. That’s not allowed in the Islamic faith. He would have to give it up and his wealth, he’s telling the youth you can go on webcams to watch prostitute’s strip. Red pill will go higher and higher in the future. Many video gamers will not be given girlfriends from playing videogames, they will go to the red pill belief. Important

I can’t tell what misogyny is, I am not a woman so I can’t speak on the matter. Women have to determine what it is, not us guys. I can’t relate to a woman at all. Because us guys don’t want to be viewed as hating women (who does?), you will see more men becoming more sensitive to women and getting pushed around in the workplace. They will keep catering to whatever ideas feminism puts out, not questioning any of it worried that they will be viewed as some sort of bigot. Misogyny is viewed as controlling women. This is serious. Important

There will just be a bigger wealth gap in society as an example of how people won’t be taking jobs as engineers because they don’t want a stressful job which means the engineers will make more since they will be in high demand. This means more protests of “wealth inequality.” Important

Society will keep looking for dopamine hit after dopamine hit so they will do more and more pranks, social media, sex, drugs, alcohol, food, listen to music, get attention, shopping, energy drinks, cigarettes, videogames, the list goes on. When that isn’t good enough, people will resort to something sick to get the dopamine hit they desire. Important

America can’t even trust their own citizens not to be bigoted. Think of the southern poverty law center. What makes it so depressing is America has to do it.

If you go telling people “This is how Allah thinks”, you will fail every single time no matter what you preach. In fact, you will get no following whatsoever. It has always been this way throughout history, people don’t want you to try to tell them how to think, no matter how you present it to them and what your credentials are. Important

Because a lot of these commentators just shut people off who don't vote democrat or republican saying insane things to get attention, their fans then chime in and say to someone "you don't care about the world's problems". The reality is people are shutting off because they don't want any part of it, yet their fans are convinced people don't care about the world's problems when they do. What was once a minor issue that both sides could have dialogue about and agree to disagree with becomes this fight of some kind. I don't know if this is comical or sad, it may be both. Important

When the world is collapsing people will think their religion is all correct since it will seem their religion correctly predicted the world ending the way it is described in Christianity, Islam etc.

Generations will not accept being told what they cannot have by religion. They won't want to be told when they are wrong when they sin. They will celebrate drinking alcohol as "liberation" from the oppressive" Islam.

Most people don't seem to mind their friends sharing their political beliefs and they know how to change the subject. This makes it so people overlook how in the future people will be more divided or will be rallying more behind their beliefs so they couldn't see the danger coming.

As long as something isn't Nazism or racism, you can produce anything in society meaning society can be anything? Do people not see the flaw in this? What if there really are laws of life? Important

Women aren't going to want Muslim men anymore, they are going to want a guy who has high status since making money legally doesn't have much of a market for women. The muslim men will start giving up more principles in the hopes of finding a girl. They will wear new clothes, talk and act differently. It has already begun.

The public thinks you can be Muslim and support the Saudi regime because that is your "right" as a Muslim. It makes no sense at all. It matters not to them if the Saud's really are Muslim, the way they see it is at least the Saud's are teaching the Quran albeit wrong. Because you are allowed to support whatever country you want as a Muslim this will get messed up. The alternative is that you tell Muslims which to support and then they will say you are pushing politics on them telling them how to think which makes you an oppressor in their minds. Important

For some reason when someone gets hate for what they believe feminism for instance it reinforces them that they are right, and they are doing something good for humanity. All this hate is going to do is get people more engaged. Important

Jonathan Greenblatt the ADL leader said the left and the right are almost equally guilty of antisemitism. This means zionism will become more political, will get more hatred, will feel more rallied, like Jonathan doesn’t know what he is doing by saying that.

People get fed up when you tell the whole world things about yourself like what you believe. It’s the same stuff over and over that they have to hear. They will get sick of all the politics that goes on when they begin to protest it. Important

One thing you get told is “oh if it makes you feel good to be Muslim then good to hear that you are one” or they will think you are a rebel of some sort against society, if only they knew

People want to believe what they want to believe. That means they will never accept Islam. Just like the Quran says no matter what sign you give them they will never believe. They will tell you that you hear what you want to.

If people have no challenge, society will resort to fornication, alcohol or basically anything bad for them. They won’t see a reason to live. They will become dramatic or not care at all. If you have no ambition, you won’t get these answers as to why to oppose the Saudi regime and be Muslim. It won’t matter to them at all. Important

It just seems like the internet is all extremes for instance either feminism or anti feminism.

You can’t give anyone criticism because in their minds they think you are bullying them, or trying to put them down, or are in manic.

Their form of wanting to be better is either more money or more college education which has shown themselves to do nothing for humanity.

They will give simple answers to questions with false studies to back up their information. They won’t care about fact check in the future.

People won’t feel good about what they’ve done for society because they will see it is not working. This battle after battle will ware on people. People want to live at peace they don’t want to be warriors their whole lives meanwhile they are competing for the best life possible, nor do they want to keep buying material for themselves. Important

It’s all politics and activism, it isn’t knowledge anymore. It’s about getting your voice out, it isn’t about informing others of some event throughout history that the public must know for their sake. The public thinks they want them to be a clone of you. Because of this, when I warn of what will happen, I am viewed as an activist of some kind. If you want society to change, then it is activism. There is more than enough activism. You have to inform people or trust that they will do their research. The public isn't going to trust that you have their best interest. Once you tell them "I am Muslim" or "I am conservative" they will shut off. It has become so clear that we don't trust each other's best interest in society, someone's voice will have to be used over someone else's. It makes you wonder, then who is going to lead America? Important

If a celebrity or politician is sponsored by a company, the company cuts ties acting as if they are expected to where they are somehow making a statement where they want to get their brand out to make more money. It has become alliances of some kind. What happens is the companies get more fame as do the celebrities and politicians, meaning more gossip in society. This is more proof all people want is to get their voice out. Everyone has to be the good guy; everyone has to be the hero. I get that companies have to protect their image however let's say the company didn't care it sponsored Kayne West with the Adidas example, the company has to have care for its image. But this isn't the solution, this makes it far worse. You will just see companies add and drop more celebrities issuing statements getting more attention and giving more attention to celebrities.

Because people get more offended and stressed by politicians in today's environment, they think they have mental health issues. They believe they matter that much to where they must have some sort of issue since they are not satisfied with what they have and where the world is today. They can't understand that is part of life.

They figure as long as they have the money, the military, and most of the world on their side it doesn't matter that their country does nothing right. This is how America everything it does wrong.

Banks don't trust you with a 50k loan, but they trust you with a 50k loan for college.

People care about their statues they don't care about their values at all. Their values they believe give them their status. If they could find something that better tells them what they want to hear and raises their status at the same time, they would leave what they believe. Important

You can't teach history if it is viewed as hatred of a group, that's what will happen. People don't want to be viewed as bigots. History will also be taught as bias so you will be getting a left or right view or a zionist or Palestinian view.

How miserable someone must be to know they are wrong but to speak anyways on a subject, but they figure “well I am rich, so it doesn’t matter whether I am right or wrong.”

We are just made that way where we always want to make it work somehow with people we don’t agree with.

All this mental health material is just a way to talk about yourself more to get more attention and more praise. The reality is that you have support you don’t need more people to talk about you positively. This is proof it never ends mental health help. How much support does someone need?

All these songs are doing is just more praise of ourselves.

What I find amazing is it doesn’t take long to study these fields such as science, math, psychology etc. You don’t need to be a master at it to understand it nor would you want to be. You have a good grasp of it. Society would obviously disagree with this and say there is so much more to explore.

People don’t want to believe they have every answer to life, they want to believe there is something out of life, so they deny the absolutes given from faith.

It will get to leader’s heads thinking they are always right, the other sides are always wrong to them, and hearing all this praise from people all the time.

“We want you to succeed.” No, you just want me pilled up for life, that’s not succeeding.

I wonder how someone could be so spoiled making 30k a year.

Because society won’t know what normal is society won’t know how to act. They are told to be you and follow your dreams. That’s not reality. They will keep chasing things that they believe to be theirs. They won’t be told your dreams are unattainable and not worth pursuing as they won’t give you what you are looking for out of life. Important

How senseless one would have to be to think Christianity tells them who they can and cannot love. The census is that the Bible commands to love thy neighbor meaning everyone, the Bible just has restrictions over homosexual acts. There are people who think in today’s world. I find this to be brutal. Important

If you want respect from others, you have to make good money, all these people will claim they don’t feel they others respect because they don’t have wealth.

When you are upset about something and you tell others to try to fix it, they think you want attention.

People won't care at all for their own wellbeing, it won't matter that problems get worse as long as they can party. They will have this I don't care I'm a boss mentality. I can't elaborate on this, but this is deep.

In the future more people will keep explaining their problems to every possible authority. Meaning the caseload will be bigger and bigger. More people will know others' problems every detail about their lives, nothing will be private anymore, they will tell the whole world their problems, if anything all these mental health issues like ADHD should be private. All this is more drama, more gossip, it makes problems far bigger than they are. All this will do is make their lives worse and then they will come up with new problems. Important

People are so concerned in society they are turning to politics.

People will find more ways around the law.

The politicians think people are more engaged, but the reality is people are concerned about their country. It is not patriotism that is involved.

What I noticed is that people don't want to reflect on the bad in society, they will always say "well this is the reason why it is happening" and then change the subject completely overlooking how serious it is. They will be a bit upset talking about it but that's all. If you were to tell them the world is going to end soon, I doubt they will believe it at all. Important 130 of 332 million people are illiterate in America. More wealth, more funding in schools isn't fixing this, how is this possible where America takes steps backwards?!

Claiming injustice sells best to the public, they want to hear it.

Their tolerance clouds their judgement making them learn nothing from history. To them, history doesn't matter.

If someone's blood pressure reads fine and they claim anxiety or stress disorder you will know they don't have it we know this because it would raise from anxiety or stress. Yet they are still diagnosed as such. So many people claim these two disorders. Important

The Muslims are trying to cancel people on social media who speak out against Islam, this is terrible for the earth. It will make it, so the Muslims are not ready for the earth we live in. It will make it so more people want to mock Islam so much more given the fact that they get a reaction out of someone, and they feel they are doing it with a good cause. Important

The two main flaws Christians make today is that they believe in free speech, they don't believe in blasphemy laws meaning someone can say anything they want about Christ whether the material said against Christ is false, slanderous, or hatred towards Christ. Christians don't believe that allowing this spread corruption in the land like in Islam when we know it does. Also, because Christians don't believe in the Bible being put into law, that means anything is allowed such as no capital punishment for murder. Important

People love to talk about how they keep improving and learning in life, they claim you never stop learning.

People think you are in a bad mood if you are not talkative.

People care so much about how they are viewed. When you care for your whole life, you are bound to be let down thinking you are worth more than what you are given.

Serious issues are listed as to why someone would be stressed out. Yet people don't claim these issues as to why they are stressed. No matter what they will always claim to be stressed out at any point in their life, that's unfortunate.

Society doesn't know what abnormal is because society has normalized everything in the name of tolerance. Important

If you don't feel the mental health field is fraudulent, you should not have the right to vote since I have shown it doesn't fix anything.

I can't understand sensitive people. Are you genuinely hurt by what someone says or believes?

What we are taught to do is to keep reporting things in society. It will get out of control of people reporting the most basic things.

You the reader already know this, but this is a reminder for me that nobody wants to hear they are wrong. You have improve, so you have to hear you are wrong at times.

Because all people do is reflect on their past they won't move on.

How can someone be offended by anything when they don't put effort in anything at all?

If you keep reporting on someone you don't trust their intent. This is a way of how trust is lost in society.

People love to talk about their heritage, it is a very popular topic to discuss.

When you try telling people things they think you tell them to want attention where you say something off base to get a reaction out of people. I can't tell them anything.

Society exempts any behavior claiming it is someone's struggles. I find this to be unreal. Important

They say they have all these values, but they don't stand up for them. Only for what is convenient for them won't get them hate from others. It shows it is all about them.

People aren't going to tolerate this anymore. How are you going to tell someone they are struggling when they are speaking out?! Important

I remember I was in the 11th grade, and I got somewhat laughed at by the teachers and classmates for saying I get my perspective of life from south park a tv show. Now all I see is people believing south park offers good wisdom on YouTube. Just something embarrassing I thought I could share.

Because we are taught to ignore bad behavior then the youth act out worse in the moment because they want more attention and that gives them the reason to believe they are being treated even worse. It is a lose-lose. Important

People in society always look to seek more about themselves and to better their social skills, for one minute a month can they dedicate themselves to learning more about knowledge considering I am one of the few in America to get the religion, right?! Important

How about instead of seeking help, you try fixing the country instead? Just a suggestion.

How truly sick you would have to be to try to make being called delusional trendy by rappers that the youth want to be like that the youth believe they are either a rebel or society doesn't understand them at all, but there never is limits. Important

The leftists want to private faith and it away in favor of them woke ideology. They don't want religion to be part of public life.

Society can't differentiate between making mistakes and having issues where someone needs to seek mental help.

America is so lucky they have the money for all this mental health that costs a fortune where other countries couldn't possibly pay for it. I really mean it.

America is concerned about everyone and everything we in society do. I can understand why, and I am speechless. This is very serious when you think deeply on it. Important

Everyone should own a gun in society that is past age 25 unless proven mentally ill which is about 8% of the population.

There will be no knowledge people will just keep reminding others of the same things you already heard them say that can be explained in a paragraph. Important

Adults will convince the youth of things that are not true about people in society so they will believe it and make people lose trust of one another. This is scary. Important

Over half of Americans have read over several passages or less of the Bible, the numbers are even far lower for Europe. Who is David Wood to act like Christians today are theologians to not have laws against insulting Christ? Nobody sits down and decides on it like in Islam with Imams. Christians don't have structure at all, and I guarantee you they will get offended reading that. I can't understand how someone would be offended by that, if you are a real Christian you would get upset at other Christians for not caring at all every day Christ is mocked don't let David Wood act as if it is part of what the high arches of Christian have all agreed on and 98% of Christians who know the religion front and back have accepted the Bible to be interpreted that way. Listen to Reza Aslan there is no way America is 7/10 Christian most don't even go to Church. That is pathetic of David Wood. Important

What I think is happening is that things are happening so quick where there is so much at once that they don't even notice the corruption that goes on in the world. They don't see the amount of distortion in religion.

We humans live to learn, we don't seek help instead of that. We make mistakes, we don't have lifelong problems, I have met people that do have lifelong problems.

Because of how mental health is normalized and it is so widespread in America, every person will have their mental health questioned their whole life, there is nothing you can do about it. Important

Your first concern should be having the least amount of stress possible in life, afterwards you can worry about what you do with your free time. In fact, you will live a far better life.

People want to talk about their problems and have someone listen versus resolving them. No, I don't make this up. They aren't problems then if they don’t need to be fixed. It does you no good at all to talk about your problems to friends for support, take it from me. In people’s minds they will think they need more and more support from others thinking it is working meaning mental health will expand.

Because they aren’t developing people properly in America more people will have issues over minor things that will become major for them. This means more work, more stress on people, making life seem much more difficult than it was. This means they won’t be happy, which means more depression for society. If the youth can’t pay attention, they cannot learn, meaning they will have to learn the hard way particularly with people skills. It’s not that they don’t respect elders, it is that they aren’t developed, meaning they don’t know right from wrong. Underdeveloped people think you are “stupid”. All the youth will think everyone around them is dumb, meaning they won’t ever learn from their mistakes. Important

You have to ask if you are an open person to someone and ask what they do not want to talk about, they don’t teach this in schools. The most basic thing to teach is that people are not interested in you trying to teach them what you believe.

You will always care what you think of yourself, but you have to learn not to care what others think of you. If you care what others think then you have to keep impressing others.

Islam won’t impress the public anymore meaning it won’t lure anyone to want to live the Muslim life. Islam won’t be good enough for them in the future. It won’t matter that Islam is a fact.

Someone’s mania can be so bad they don’t even care about their own well-being, all they care about is impressing others to the point they don’t care that they don’t make sense at all they will keep trying to impress, I’ve seen it. When it doesn’t work, they keep doing it as if tomorrow they will impress someone.

If anyone says I am in manic when I explain politics or religion to them, I will make such a distinct face at them with a different tone voice.

Because Muhammad is all that is talked about in Islam, we Muslims are viewed as excessively praising Muhammad and as an idol worshipping cult when we are not. Muhammad even said do not excessively praise me like the Christians do as two of the reasons for why he said that.

If something can be excessive then there clearly are laws to life. Important

They can just say there is a lot of corruption in Syria. That’s not true, it just seems that way looking at the fact Syria is divided. It’s not corruption, it is their fault the free syrians and the Kurds for wanting to overthrow the government. They don’t believe in what Syria does, but they don’t own up to it, that’s cheap to say it is corruption as if the free syrians and Kurds could seriously do better.

Of course, people will call each other crazy because there are crazy people who become wahhab teachers and influence others because they study religion all day through social media.

No matter what is in the Quran, no matter what information is present in today’s world, no matter that the archeology confirms the events took place, no matter what is happening in the world, no matter why wars are fought in the Middle East, no matter what person of any status tells them, there are people who will always say “we will never know” if Islam is correct or not. People think you still need faith for the stories in scripture. You don’t in today’s world we have archeology now. With more material, more studies done it doesn’t matter. No matter what access to media, it doesn’t affect their belief or not. People only go to religion for status or for a community. People have to meet Muhammad to know he was perfect in person and speech. They need beyond the Quran and hadiths. They think the catholic clergy questions if God exists, the reality is the catholic clergy doesn’t question God’s existence at all. The thought the catholic clergy may be lying to you for money is a minor belief they have. What confuses them is that people believe priests could believe in God and be wrong while other priests believe in God and are right. The irony, the catholic clergy leaves catholicism politically! They’ve all considered there being multiple god’s and have doubts in religion. All they care about is being happy first, being wrong on religion was never a thought that would cross their minds. After finding out they are wrong if proven on this earth they were, it wouldn’t matter, they would continue being wrong because they are most happy with their false beliefs. They believe there are questions in faith that go beyond comprehension, there aren’t. We were given every answer in the Quran a holy book in which there is no doubt. Nobody has told them that we humans started in Arabia, it is one of the last options where Africa is very far number one. It doesn’t help saying Allah’s culture is Arabian. Putting someone down for faith will never get someone to change their religion, only leave. They want examples by how someone lives their life not by saying the verses. This means if you tell them the happiest you could be on the earth is Muslim, they need to see a person like that. They believe the more you learn it could or could not further your beliefs. The irony is that it strengthens faith. You can ask every question about life by age 21, yet they will tell you there is so much more to explore like space. They don’t believe a Bible or Quran verse helps or hinders a faith in one or another, more irony here, some Bible verses create doubt. They claim they need experiences, that means they don't believe Muhammad's experiences nor Bashar Al Assads. All this shows me is that they don't want to live the Islamic life. Just as the Quran says, they are headless. Important

Most people only want to talk about the verses that bring them joy so wisdom, fasting, charity, praying, they want to keep it very simple too. They don't want to talk about the heavy verses in the Quran. Believe me I did not know that until age 29.

If you want to say "that's one interpretation of the Quran" fine. However, you would have to provide for me at least 12 different interpretations of the Quran. If there were 3 interpretations of the Quran, what a stupid thing to tell me. Show me that you did your research that my interpretation "might be correct", that's a cheap thing to say then if you cannot provide each verses meaning which you won't give me because that could show my interpretation of having the Day of Judgment is correct. I was told by someone that we are competing to get to a level of Paradise that it was "one interpretation" I had, there will be many "interpretations" in the future of religion. Important

I would rather people look at me like I am crazy than just ignore me thinking I want to explain my beliefs that they want no part of. At least if they looked at me like I am crazy then they would know I support scripture for America.

Here's a dark reality, people only want you to excel in life so you can pay taxes for their government fundings like social security, schools etc. How is this a win-win? I have to work as many hours as possible to keep a country going that they support. It would figure they never give up on you, they just want to see you happy right?

Having women in the workplace just leads to more suspicion of adultery. I support women working, in fact I would rather women work, this is an example of how our lives became more dramatic since women entered the workplace in the 1930s.

Having no female friends benefits a spouse, she has far less reason to be worried about adultery. I didn't realize this, Islam wanted to help women.

I can't stand it when people have no knowledge on a matter and they put their opinion out, no one needs it. Important

No matter how many books someone reads on a matter they will keep being wrong. Knowing every detail doesn't seem to help them better understand the errors in what they believe. They think they are furthering their knowledge, but they are not. For religion and politics, they are either all right or all wrong, they agree on this. All books are for is to become deeper and deeper in what they believe. You don't think the person who is typing this uses books for that? Your IQ can only go so high as I have shown before.

If you hold no grudges, you walk away when needed, you rarely stand up for yourself, you always reach out to support relatives, you show up to the wars when needed, you abide by the Islamic laws given such as no alcohol in today's earth, you spend within your means, congratulations, you are a champion of mankind! Important

Taxpayers will get more frustrated because schools cost more every year and produce more politics and are not fixing the youths' mental health issues nor are educating them.

How can someone assume the best that someone is struggling? You can tell by looking the patient not only wants to bring you down but has no intent of ever feeling bad for you when you are struggling. I am told that the patients have to keep struggling constantly meanwhile they are always saying it's your fault making no effort to learn from their mistakes. Every time they will blame you for it. If you did this with your kids, it would spoil them never hearing the words "no" or "stop". You can't assume the best because one person would ruin it for everyone either they are cynical, or they make no effort to learn from their "struggling". Struggling means you can say and do pretty much anything. What a perk struggling is. Also, what is assuming the best? The best would imply not only the person wants to learn from it, but this was their last resort to abuse you. I watched a patient smile calling a worker a "slutmut". I'd like to talk to a professional who believes that is struggling on this person's part, I will look them firm in the eye.

You get all this praise, love, and support in North America and Europe. Like it isn't enough they let you believe anything you want. It is so obvious people want to believe everyone is kind and cares about them they are just wrong at times, and they are there to correct them, that's not how the world works at all.

The professionals teach that hatred is learned. It's natural in everyone and can be proven. All their efforts to get rid of hate in society go to nothing.

If you are angry all the time no one wants to be around you. That's what will happen in the future where people are angry or sad meaning it will be too much work to have friends or a spouse.

Without knowledge, you have nothing. Important

The more material you put out the more it discourages people who don't support you. I've seen it. It doesn't have to be serious material it can just be data and talking about conservatism, for instance while you are professional.

Why have all these flags of lgbt, cops, military, why not just have one American flag?

They don't teach in schools that someone's beliefs will not interfere with your life, nor can they possibly influence you. Important

They aren't going to avoid conversations that are controversial that get them angry. When the conversations keep getting brough up what it will do is further make enemies out of people to the point where they can no longer get along working with each other because we know they will not be friendly towards each other. Conversations that must be avoided and stopped will be all they will talk about. Important

There are no studies on the risk of radicalization and how to avoid it.

Being on the fence where they are not able to decide on an issue won't be enough, people in society will expect you to answer yes or no to issues so the far left and the far right will win in America.

The only way to solve problems is to have knowledge on matters, we all know that we are now learning how important knowledge really is and how people distort it for their beliefs. Important Islam had to be explained through Prophets it couldn't be theorized for instance the Day of Judgement how it works, no one could just think up a Day of Judgement and how it is done which helps the case that Islam is correct.

Someone will tell you they are on the fence on a matter because they don't want to tell you how they really feel about an issue. They don't want others to not get along with them.

Judaism and Christian in today's world don't uphold the laws, they did historically. Only Islam does. There are plenty of Jews and Christians who uphold the laws, but the religions don't do anything about it. Only Islamic countries say no to issues such as abortion.

I don't think mankind is evil, I think in today's world mankind just doesn't care. They don't want better for themselves. I think this generation just doesn't get it why to care for others worldwide and why to educate yourself. I don't know what generation this started in. All they care about is your right to have every right possible; they forget morality. I am not saying much of the world is not moral but that their concern is “freedom for everyone” and that’s it they get offended if they don’t feel the world is “free”. An example of this is that Christians don’t care that their countries legalize abortion and do not teach religion in school, I understand Christians allow for other religions, however David Wood lied claiming that Christians in today’s world go by the verse of pay to Caesar what is Caesars as a way of saying abide by the countries laws despite being the majority of citizens in the U.S., that is not at all Christians intent in today’s world.

The voting age along should be 25 at the age of reason.

One thing celebrities and politicians do so wrong is they say “I am not bigoted, I am not racist” after saying comments on a matter of gossip. Nobody is accusing them of this. They don’t have to address this because now their fans take from it and keep talking about how they aren’t racist, and they mean to “speak the truth for good”. If someone is accusing you of this, why do you care? It gets even worse, the alternative response is “I don’t care what people think, your opinion is not needed” attitude. Seriously?!

In America you can believe whatever you want, so an American can be perfect, you are never taught that you are not since in America Islam isn’t considered a fact.

Everyone accepts that there are bad ideas in the world. This is why Allah calls disbelievers arrogant; they view us Muslims as arrogant. Arrogance is a fact, a law of life.

People are very fair minded in society; they will listen to you talk about a subject you want to talk about as long as you are not excessive. They will tell you if they don’t want to talk about a subject.

Charity, fasting, praying, getting married, reading the Quran it is to get you to care. We may need the Quran in the world especially how our lives are all about consumption and our jobs are dead end. Teaching yourself morality, dialogue and ethics across many years may not be enough.

No matter what sign I give them to show them that Allah exists, it is not the material they are looking for. Important

Why aren’t war criminals like Hillary Clinton, George W. Bush, Barack Obama, FDR, and Harry Truman canceled? It is because they aren’t racist, how unfortunate. Important

The next time anyone tells me there is no hope in me, I will ask them to run for office, I’d like to see how they would plan out how to run America. Important

We can compete for a higher rank in Islam by praying more to become more righteous. We can never match Muhammad, but we can get our rank number 1 of all our generation and make the number even more unreachable for every generation throughout history. Noah lived 950 years, we aren't even close to his righteousness since we only have at most 120 years of praying. However, we can strive to be number 1 after the Prophets and first Caliphs. There is no limit Islam as I have shown.

If people have problems with someone else they don't talk it out anymore. They just go right to the staff. Do you see something wrong with this? Regardless of if the person they go to is unbiased or not, why do you not trust my intent? The more people become involved, the more drama. You're supposed to keep reporting to someone instead of expecting it for what it is. If you keep reporting people then the boss for instance has more concern for you meaning you get more time from the boss to talk about his concerns of you reporting someone. They view this as a luxury to have.

It would figure Mark Zuckerberg, who is treated like a genius, has an entire staff that sits around and does nothing. Yet people still think he's a genius.

All the people who hate Islam see is that we execute people who leave the religion making Islam seem like we want to control people.

The whole goal when it comes to a job is how to interview well and have a good resume. Once you get to the job you just pick and choose tasks. If you don't like it you just get a new job. In the future the employees won't even do the tasks needed they will do the bare minimum out of laziness.

If women are bossy it ruins marriage because the woman then believes they know more than the man in marriage which means why stay with the man? The woman now believes she can do better.

You can tell someone is arrogant when you give them historical facts and they get absolutely nothing out of it claiming the perspective given by American historical books. Or they just don't even bother to dispute anything they just listen and then forget completely to fact check it saying this is a good perspective there are many views on it where they haven't accepted yet things can be all correct and all wrong. Important

The cop who almost shot me looked at me like "why are you getting mad over this?" He's not a hypocrite, he just doesn't care about anyone or anything including himself if someone pulled a gun on him. They look at me like why do you even care about being sectioned. First, why do they not care 20k goes down the drain, second, they themselves wouldn't care if they were sectioned and called delusional their whole life. It makes me wonder how I can ever get mad at people in America when society doesn't hold people accountable for anything me included? Important Dementia gets progressively worse. A president still should not be older than 76 and should be voted out. They can become incompetent. My dad is getting forgetful of things at 70 and hearing issues. How do people not notice this when they voted for Joe Biden? The excuse people can say is that Joe Biden has a team of people to work with him. Do they not realize how wrong that is to vote in a guy like that where other people have to work with Joe Biden to prevent bad ideas?

The protests won't be peaceful. It won't be about getting your voice out anymore, it will be a reality that it must be done for people, the problem won't be resolved.

In today's world they will say it is you and not your religion unless if you are a nazi or a racist. In the future everyone will say it is Islam or it is talmudism. They know how dangerous it is blaming a whole group of people. Only in the Middle East do they accept the reality that religion is the cause they don't say it is caused by someone's "mental health issues". Someone was telling me it's Israel the country it's not talmudists because the guy really doesn't believe it is talmudism and he never wants to blame a belief. Talmudists he believes are good people they are just wrong. Yet we are the ones who have it right that yes, it is caused by talmudism. Also, he wants you to believe whatever you want to believe, that's what most people believe in society.

If it doesn't bother someone in the slightest where they don't even make a face when Jesus is mocked by someone in person, they do not believe in God. It isn't some sort of "tolerance" that could ever be taught.

Does it make sense to someone that America is a first world country and leads the world in disability? You would think the opposite. I find this to be ridiculous.

Most of what you say people don't even get mad at. People just want to have fun they don't want to talk about their field such as medical.

Being empathetic all the time makes you feel bad inside. All you see on the internet is people talking about their problems. Our lives are made much worse by this.

The portion of people who talk like they are a king on the phone ordering something but then in person they don't act that way at all. It is funny to me.

They don’t teach in schools to listen to everything someone says because you want to improve and to walk away if you are in the wrong. Doing this won’t bother you that much.

It makes total sense that the people who are the most sensitive try to cancel everything they don’t like in society. They are so sensitive they think everything must go claiming racism that doesn’t exist.

America has to keep letting people off of their court case crimes because many people keep committing crimes. America won’t just lock all these people up.

It doesn’t work calling someone “college boy” as a way to jeer because if someone talks to you who is educated, they will know that you can pass college and now in today’s world anyone can go to college through loans given out.

The more knowledge you have the more you are inclined to do evil. This is the genius of Abrahamic faiths to figure this out.

I would hope many in UAE are not depressed because they have such high expectations for themselves where they want to keep bettering themselves, they don’t even read into Islam nor what goes on in the world, nor care about the Ummah, that would be so scary. It gets worse, weekly Mosque attendance is in the 20’s for percentage.

You can’t prevent ever when your views are brought up, the conversation will always go south with someone you disagree with.

There’s no dream scenario where we all get along as neighbors. Even if we don’t agree we can all get along, this won’t hold up in the future. People won’t be taught to ignore people in society, it will all be about justice or getting someone “mental help”.

It is easy to evaluate someone by way of seeing if they can get along with others since they can get along with many people and they won’t get into much trouble. In the future the majority will follow the worst of all and get along with the person who is right will only have 25% support from the general public. Important

All these people who said, “I don’t know if religion is right or not”, they will be so confused what is going on when they are resurrected again, and their deeds are being told by Angel they don’t believe in. They won’t even know how to respond for their actions on the earth because they will be asked in terms of faith, and they know so little about religion knowing only a few bible verses. This would be like if you just reached puberty and you were being asked about honors abstract algebra. These very smart people will look so dumb as if you are trying to teach someone beginners reading, and they can only say one or two words where you can't teach them beyond that, and they are not listening to directions. I have this great example for you, sex is a good deed, they will respond saying "I had a lot of sex in my life" but they had it out of marriage which means it is a sin so they will get a look from the Angels. This gets worse, they will be asked what they did for justice, they will respond saying I protested for climate change, I highly doubt that will be viewed as a good use of time on the earth. They may even say the climate is more important than praying, making a bad situation even worse. Important

If you roll your eyes every 5 seconds no one will like you, that's a law of life.

All people want is balance in their lives, many different things in their life.

I can't think of any idea in today's world that isn't normalized.

If you are going to preach buy a tablet so the notes are always with you and keep a copy of the Bible and Quran in your backpack.

Most people view every human right as equal so America keeps adding to them what they accuse Iran of robbing its citizens of. Just look at the list, women's rights, lgbt, freedom of speech, they keep expanding the list.

Only in North America and Europe can you be laughed at by people who are wrong. How?

The best thing to say about someone you don't like is "I give up" when referring to them. I find this hysterical.

There's not enough housing in America, it should be a requirement for a country to prevent homelessness.

They keep adding new rules at the workplace. We are back at high school.

Racism is a conversation people don't want to talk about yet it's all they talk about on the news. Plenty of people don't want a conversation about what they deem racist. They don't want to talk about what you deem racist either. Important

People believe society expects them to behave in a certain way so that they have to explain themselves a lot more.

People like to talk at their jobs, that's their favorite part of the job.

Raising your voice never works they will never think you want to control the situation. Important

I wonder if people love talking about themselves too much, they give away details that they just shouldn't.

All believers are against discrimination, but you will get the accusation depending on what you say when you denounce a group of people's behavior. They tell you only for the individual yet that doesn't work. That's not how life works as I have shown.

Society won't know what an injustice is because everyone will keep fighting and fighting everything in society. There will be many injustices in society but there will be so many people trying to end the earth by wrecking it for their own personal gain.

What will happen is people will be forced to talk about material such as talmudism or politics that will make them mad. It will worsen and worsen for them until they start threatening people out of hate. The youth will attack people in society thinking they are doing the right thing, the youth do not know to not attack people, but they will be influenced.

I disagree with the argument I hear "you don't need a gun this state is safe", it takes only one person to make the state not be safe and Massachusetts has a mental health crisis. It makes me wonder have you ever met a person like such?

People don't see all that goes wrong in society because they don't see it in masses, and they don't see it in their day-to-day lives. What they do is go to work and go home.

Jews and Christians need their own communities where entering them it is not legal to blaspheme God. I know Jews have their own communities, but they don't have their own laws. If they don't send their children to a religious school, I don't want to hear about how the schools are indoctrinating the youth unless they were to tell me that the religious schools fail or they couldn't afford them, which is a valid reason for not sending their son or daughter there.

The professionals tell you that we all react to things differently. I obviously don't believe that I believe we all have range of responses that is not wide that can be explained and what is an acceptable response to a certain action. If for example you had a fear of dogs or you didn't want to go to large football stadiums because you don't like it, that isn't a range of emotions that is just who you are as a person. It is true some people handle things worse than others but that doesn't mean we react differently, if that were the case there would be people in society who have nothing wrong if you went up and shoved them for no reason. Important

In the future they won't let people walk away from drama and gossip, they will be taught to keep talking about it non-stop, thinking that will cause the solution of their problems. This will cause stress repeatedly time after time. I'm all for talking to someone to calm down but there needs to be a limit on how many times and how long the duration is.

What would happen is if you kept going out and preaching you would keep being sectioned and banned from everywhere. When you get sectioned enough, they will take you to a local psych ward which first you wait for state to open which is 8 months of waiting and then state is a year. Good thing the psychiatrist knows not to keep you more than 2 weeks if the FBI or police take you where the psychiatrist isn't mad at what you did. That would make this so much worse if the psychiatrists were taught to be very nationalistic. If you go too many times, they will take you to state which ruins it. I find this to be ridiculous, it may be the worst thing of all about America.

If someone were to say people who are open about committing adultery and they themselves commit adultery but not tell people, I think that makes them a hypocrite kind of 50-50 here.

People will lose all hope in a country if the majority do not have good ethics, you already know that.

Muhammad obviously told his wives that Allah loved them no matter what. Muhammad wouldn't divorce his wives knowing what that would do them psychologically since it would clearly be a fault in their character that they are not good enough, more evidence if we needed it.

People feel they have to show off their beliefs or family to the world.

Everyone can get a 4-year degree unless they were in special needs in high school.

Teaching people that they have to be happy all the time, what that does sets expectations so high that without the ability to be happy all the time that must mean something is wrong, so a person has to fix this "sadness."

Christianity got it all wrong, Satan is not equally as powerful as God and Satan does not appear as an Angel. Satan is a jinn, Satan can appear as a human to someone and possess people, but Satan cannot appear as an Angel. Satan most likely looks like a small figure a demon of some sort; Satan does not look at all like a human.

They need to teach law in schools instead of science, that's common sense.

Remember all this social media is there forever it’s not like blogs where most of them are now lost. TikTok for instance you can watch a video from 50 years ago when it is that old so you can keep watching zionist videos for instance all day.

The word “haters” is abused in society. It is supposed to be for people who don’t use reason as to why they send hate mail, this is correct and the correct usage of it. The word “haters” is used for people who dislike you or don’t agree with what you believe. The people who use it for that terminology, grow up.

People will always be convinced that if you were rich, you would feel so great inside a feeling that would be beyond this world. Even if you told them, it’s not that great, they would not listen.

We all want more experiences out of life, the best possible, yet people chase material first.

People cannot influence you talking to you, it’s up to you no matter if you had to listen to them 8 hours a day as a sibling. It is only if you want to be influenced.

I think the media has to push Syria and Yemen for instance or else people won’t be on board. Because the media pushed Ukraine everyone rallied. There’s no way it’s because they are Muslim. Think of Taiwan not enough Americans support Taiwan but every American supports Ukraine. Important

People are all talk. They say they hate Donald Trump but just talk about him on their twitters. This isn’t Syria where people take up arms. They would never take up arms. That doesn’t change the fact people are losing hope in America and there will be more and more protestors which will lead to its demise when it starts to become riots. The riots won’t begin for another 100 years at least. What I am saying is it will take time before these turn into riots. Important

How can someone claim Islam has bad women’s rights when in Saudi Arabia own citizens don’t fact check if the niqab is allowed or not, yet we are told Saudi Arabia is a “muslim country”? Their citizens are doing it for their country not their religion. They think they are doing it for both. Important

People want more and more out of life. It isn’t just material they want better memories that they are not getting so what happens is they are not satisfied.

Here’s great advice, always talk about the other person and their interests, join in with them and say what you agree with, if you disagree, change the subject gradually. Also remember that people love to talk about themselves or their family. At minimum they will get along with you and like you to some degree. Important

Saying “I don’t know” to religion is from Satan. We are allowed to hide our Islamic faith but first we can’t in today’s world, second the person would not tell the truth to Muslims who clearly wouldn’t persecute them, and third the person clearly doesn’t believe where they don’t pray at all. Important

The worst thing is to tell a child that they will never reach their dreams and they are not good enough.

One serious flaw with America is that they let you believe anything you want. I know I already said this 1000 times but what I am trying to say here is they don’t believe someone is all right and all wrong that their views need to keep being revised so that I can be right. An example being the clinician in the psych ward admitted “we have to do this.” Either she is so tolerant of others, or she doesn’t understand the importance of being right in society. Yes, I view things as black and white in society. For an example like this, this is something I won’t debate Important

If a Christian claims there is “persecution” in America, how do you define it? Who hates you for being Christian?

“I complain not only to Allah” that means everyone of the earth will not like it when someone rants about what they don’t have in life. Another concept that is correct in Islam.

All this is going to do is keep mobilizing people where people keep supporting each other for what they believe. The more content put out, the more support the more your voice is heard, the dialogue goes up why people get more invested in what they believe. The more people watch, the more commentators supporting or against a group, the more time spent with the viewers looking for each content creator no matter how big the content creator is. A comparison is like with a video game, the more you play the better you get with it. The difference is that being fantastic at a videogame won’t cause a country’s demise. I have to clarify, I am not advocating for nazi germany of censorship at all, I am showing what is happening. I am not saying there is something wrong with this, there could be, I am not a genius by any means. Important

I was at college for four years. I had two classes on real estate and financial planning. The teacher was very passionate. He and I didn’t agree on anything. One day I said at the end of one of his lectures before the class was over that I didn’t agree with a famous lady who was giving her advice on saying for the future. He got so mad he yelled at me for like 10 minutes. He was very left, and I am very conservative. I could not in a million years picture I will sit in the front of the class provided I don’t already know the material and the advice isn’t so bad regardless of if I think they are pushing politics left or right. Afterwards I won’t say a word I may laugh if the advice is horrible. I’d bet he and I would get along now. Some of his beliefs are horrible though like climate change ending the earth. He didn’t like me, and he handed out an -A both times anyways because I did the homework. He thought I purposely wasn’t doing the homework because my book came in late. He thought I signed up for the second class with him to take advantage of not doing the homework. He’s not wise enough to make students fail for not doing homework only if they don’t go to class.

People in society figure you can read the religious text and decide for yourself if it is a fact or not. They figure if you believe then more power to you glad you are happy, that’s not at all how religion works.

Always look at life glass half full. Accept that you have less in life, but you did what you viewed good to you first over all other choices you could make.

All Twitter is a fight of two groups going back and forth and people posting vulgar memes. On Twitter people keep saying the same things and they have over 31k tweets because all they want is hate mail to feel big behind a screen. That may sound like I’m angry typing that, I’m not at all. Twitter isn’t educational but they sell it like it is that it has news and opinions. It is biased and a bad time for everyone. Twitter is just to remind you what you already know about your team, you learned nothing from it. The internet is so depressing.

America has to trust that a generation doesn’t have mass abortions and where they prevent the population from staying at a good rate so the youth can pay taxes for social security for the elderly.

All these people who claim they are lonely in their mid-20’s and have no friends I am not buying it. If they had a friend, they wouldn’t hit them up or rarely. If it were so needed for them then they would go to a clubhouse.

In every country you can believe what you want. You just cannot practice openly your faith; in all countries you can tell the public you committed adultery. No one gets jailed for it. The media are liars here. No country will execute you nor imprison you for leaving a religion. If they can prove in a court that you are working for Saudi Arabia in Iran then yes they will execute you. At an assembly not openly meaning they won’t let you build a Church in Saudi Arabia or a bahai temple in Iran. Iran allows for a hindu temple but a bahai temple because bahai has proven in the past to be terrorists. With Saudi Arabia their citizens do not want any churches they don’t want to be around them. They want to know you to get along provided you do hide your religious beliefs and never talk about it. They would get incredibly offended if you tried to convert a family member of theirs. You didn't need the details as to why I just gave it to show how human behavior works.

You have to change subjects if ever brought up with religion. They won't tell you in the future that they want to end the conversation.

They teach to never stoop to someone's level. This is going to be hard in the future. If you stoop then they won't quit.

People don't agree with all what Christianity teaches they say it is gray meaning some practices are not needed along with Bible verses.

There are no statistics for which towns or which states have therapists, something we would need to know where the problems are.

People don't take interest in the world at large so they make huge mistakes like saying George Washington instead of George Bush, but they know so much about psychology.

Illiterate people are very capable people. Most know what goes on in the world and what goes on in America when they live in Iraq. They are plenty capable of learning anything, the thing is they are already well aware. I wrote this to speak positively about people who are illiterate. Literacy isn't even needed; you can know everything about life you just need someone to teach you or watch it on a TV.

People want to talk about their day not learn from others. You can see how this can all fail where we need education in the world foremost.

Because people have friends who are in the military they will not be against the wars that America fights so America can easily invade Syria.

If you ask someone why you don't go to Church more often they will get offended. Irony is they don't care.

You cannot tell me people are open to new perspectives. Once they hit 30 they never change their views.

I see life only one way for most everything. Most people don't view things in black and white.

We don't know the motive for mass shooters. It is not from frustration though. It is some sort of political cause. They always believe they are right to do what they did and claim to want sympathy then they talk about right wing material.

You can't just ask who they vote for, but you can ask for ballot questions they vote for, that's how you would know.

It's hard to care what people think when friends and coworkers all come and go. With friends no matter how long you have known them for, they all can be replaced.

Most of the time if you feel shame for something where you think about it again in shame like if you misspoke about politics citing a statistic without sources, it is a sin. Not always is it a sin though. Ask honest, smart people and they will tell you about the severity by how quickly they want to end the conversation and the face they make at it. We can prove there are major and minor sins based on how long someone feels shame for something. Important

I could be far wrong about this but as long as someone feels shame, they are a believer. I only allow for the 3 Abrahamic faith religions along with Zoroastrians but if someone says agnostic and still feels shame for their actions, they are a believer. As far as hindus, buddhists, I have no clue. The Muslim countries allow it, but I don't feel they are believers, I would be going up against a lot of Imams claiming that.

Any country that legalized lgbt, most of their citizens have all this free will and they abuse it. But when I tell people that I look like I'm pushing religion onto them.

Very rarely do people change who they are at the age of 28. If they are rude at age 28, they were rude their whole life.

I think China isn't Christian because they want to be communist and loyal to their country, but they all know very well about Christianity and Islam, they have a 50-59% internet usage rate meaning their neighbors know of it if they don't have internet which they teach them of. Everyone is literate too; I am sure they all have read books on religion or at least know the practices. As I have said they are loyal to their country and know about which countries they support.

Because Muslims are taught to be tolerant to what other "muslims" (wahhabs) do, they will not call a wahhab out for doing a practice wrong that the wahhab was taught from a wahhab scholar. If a Muslim sees a wahhab doing this practice, he will not fact check the source, he may or may not join along thinking it is an Islamic practice found in the hadiths. Because in Islam you can add a practice that is cultural and you don't have to tell someone it is cultural and not found in the hadith's no one knows for sure which is cultural, which was false added by a wahhab scholar, and which is a practice found in the hadiths.

The reason why Islam is correct is because Muhammad is the perfect example of mankind. This means any faith that isn’t Abrahamic doesn’t have a perfect example which means you can be anyone you want, you could rob liquor stores, it wouldn’t matter. You would be neither right nor wrong in terms of religion. Even if every hindu scholar said it was not allowed, they cannot tell you their false gods consider it wrong, they have no sacred infallible text, only all Muslims accept that the Quran is infallible, Christians and Jews differ amongst followers if their text is infallible or not. Thankfully we have laws in Muslim countries incase if hindu followers were to do this. Important

Very rarely do people change who they are at the age of 28. If they are kind at age 28, they were kind their whole life. They are rude at age 28, they were rude their whole life.

People don’t want to speak ill about others, so they never talk about what others do. If they were to mention it then it was because you brought it up and they briefly talk about it. They won’t have a long discussion about it. People have friends in the military so they will support the wars that America fights because they want to be supportive of their friends. People believe the government will protect them from the hatred this brings from countries invaded, the government never does. Important

What happens is people don’t get the experiences they had hoped for out of life, so they say I’m sad or they pout. Then they start claiming they have all of these mental health issues they don’t have.

People’s first goal in life is to be respected by others, it’s not to be happy. Of course, this is going to end badly. That could fail so easily.

I think what happens is people think by putting out freaky material there is a chance it will go viral, so they keep trying for the jackpot. For some reason though they think this freaky material is gold to them.

Leftists get offended by so many things they have to keep adding things you cannot say they won’t even have dialogue. There won’t be anything to talk about with one.

No matter what you did with your time be it seek knowledge, go out, it will never hold up when we meet Allah to say it was more needed than prayer, prayer always comes first. Important

I didn’t know this, all religions all beliefs such as conservative are trying to find the most amount of joy you could possibly have on the earth. This means they will keep competing. For their rock is not like ours.

People seriously believe in America that letting you be who you want to be leads to the best life and makes for an environment where everyone gets along. I don't have words for someone like that given the fact we have data on America where it is headed.

Society seriously believes that if you are a horrible person, you aren't living the best life possible and you are miserable, it's the opposite.

If you ever want to convince someone to believe what you believe tell them it brings you the most joy. Don't give them evidence as to why you are correct in what you do, they don't want it. If you want to convince someone of Islam, tell them life is a test and there are seven layers of Paradise.

There is not one person since Christianity was embraced by Rome in 313 that wasn't made well aware of Abrahamic faiths and had the ability to go to a Church to learn about the faith.

First world countries of today may get lazy and skip key tasks in the future.

Even if you show a Christian the Bible has errors and you try to explain that the Quran has no errors, they won't convert on the basis alone that they believe God can be defined as having religious texts as errors and they have a reasoning they feel is bigger why God is real, and Christianity is right. Important

What convinced me of Islam being right with no order is archeology, a final day, no errors, one God, prayer times, good ethics, laws of life, Muhammad as a model for all of mankind, Muhammad told you Allah is a Muslim not a Christian nor Jew. Important

If they see you laughing, they will never know if it is manic, or you are mocking them, so they assume manic for some reason.

Everyone in every religion thinks they are right so there will just be more and more response views of the same talking points. People will want to keep watching response videos from different content creators of material they already know to argue and laugh at someone who for instance uses the Bible to try to dispute the Quran. Important

The reason why cities like Worcester do so bad is because their citizens don't want to apply themselves and get advanced degrees in fields like engineering or go into trades. They are educated enough, and the jobs are always there. They can easily pass community college. This has nothing to do with city planning. Important

Technically, the voting age should be 25 but we can't do that since the military age is 18. I'm not saying this is clear proof something bad will happen, but it sure gives vibes of it.

They give the same advice they already gave in mental health, this a reminder claiming it takes several times until you hear it to sink in that all people aren't willing to accept, stubborn is mankind.

You lose all credibility when you distort verses for a narrative, and you steal frequently. First because the Quran is all correct you don't have to cater to a different audience, and it works for society. Because of this, people no longer believe in Islam you lose credibility for the Ummah for not learning and fixing. Ridvan Aydemir on YouTube and I both despise when people do this. Important

It wouldn't help if I told someone Jesus was from the Middle East so the Arabs would know religion best. I believe it should.

They tell you it is human to feel bad if you get cheated on. The reality is it is a law of life, not human nature. Human nature means emotion, laws of life means something that must happen as a result of what happened on the earth.

The Tree of Life is like nothing you could ever imagine. You couldn't describe it and you couldn't stop eating from it, you would not want anyone to take you away from it. Important

Most people are not patriotic. Their only concern is for them to be happy along with you. You could never make someone angry if you insulted America.

Plenty of patients don't want to do the right thing, they just want the law to protect them, and they figure by taking pills that means they are trying to do the right thing. In essence, they are lying to themselves. Plenty of patients can't recognize when they do the wrong thing in society. I'm not saying they are doing the wrong thing all the time but plenty of them are. When they get sympathy from the cops where they think the patients committing trouble don't know any better. They never want to talk about what they did wrong; the reason must be because they want to talk about themselves or something entertaining, not something they want to forget. They do know better, and no illness is causing them to commit crime except in extreme cases, which is rare. Important

People get away with so much in this country, both the cops and the citizens. The corruption is unreal. All they say is “you're mentally ill.” Get out of here, society will never learn in America. I'm showing how they have to put more people in prison, nobody is in favor of that. You can see it coming when something so bad is going to happen. Just the sheer amount of people that don't want America to be good, all they want is what's in it for them at any cost even to the point of being called mentally ill or being hated by their neighbors along with the cops. Their concern is always them never America nor others. I don't mean to come off as an American patriot but to show that whatever they are telling you in schools is false that America is prospering. People couldn't see it coming. Important

Remember these are the therapists, politicians, religious leaders in America. I would think every institution except for humanitarian that believes to give back first but even humanitarian makes the fatal flaw that if everyone is helped than wealth can be as high as possible, and they will never forsake God. So, all beliefs are wrong in America in this scenario. Important 40% of men won't talk about their mental health. I fully understand why they want no part of it. 90% of Americans think there is a mental health crisis in America. I'm part of the 10% that isn't. I would agree with this, but it isn't a crisis, it is very bad at the moment.

What people seem not to understand is that there are requirements in religion and the earth. People can't do the work and take care of you. It's not that simple. The elites explain religion to them as the way to weaken society. We need religion, it will all make sense later when the world is beginning to collapse, and people won't want to do their jobs anymore. Important

What many Christians do so wrong is they think that when Christianity is mocked, they think that relates to their god being mocked on the cross. All that does is discourage people from being Christian. It is not a below fair amount of mocking, it is everywhere! Picture if their god was mocked worldwide during and after crucifixion which their god wasn't! In fact, their followers weren't even persecuted only let's say 5% at most historically, that is a Christian myth. I totally understand responding with nothing, in fact I support their stance of no action as a Muslim, Christians get it right in theology. However, it has gone way too far! There has to be one Christian that agrees with me besides Pastor Steven Anderson. I shouldn't have to tell Christians that we are human, we have our limits we all believe in laws of life being part of an Abrahamic faith. You are not your god jesus, you can't endure what will come in the future when the mockery gets far worse. I am not saying Christians are being "dumb" here, I am saying they got theology wrong! Christians are asking too much from their followers who don't even go to church nor care where at least 70% are like that. I never thought I would say that about Christians in a million years! What they allow in Churches and their followers, that's something completely different, that's its own separate serious issues in Christianity today. Important

People forgive you overtime because they trust you, this takes months and months of dialogue. In the first few months of knowing them, if you slip with what you say, they will not trust your intent at all.

One thing I really don't like that at least a portion of people do is that they don't use their words, then later on they say "you're doing this wrong" holding you accountable. Why couldn't you tell me way early on instead of looking at me like why are you doing this? In that time, they build up this case against you that they will say. Happens to me all the time throughout my life.

Syria has no blasphemy laws; I do not support their stance on it. I truly believe they got that law wrong. I still support Syria.

I didn't understand this that because Christians believe Jesus claimed to be god, died on the cross, rose from the dead opening the gates of heaven, those are by far the most essential parts of Christianity. That's what they are looking for in religion. Denying these thing means you are denying Jesus to them. They won't listen to anything else in the Quran, they've already quit at ever converting. It wouldn't matter how much of the Quran follows the Bible if for instance the Quran followed 95% of the Bible. No matter what is added, Christians will not subtract these three core doctrines.

Many people thrive off talking about what happened with someone else they don't like. This gives them a chance to call the other person dumb and talk about themselves, feeling no remorse at all. When they are told to stop this behavior, they are told "we understand where you are coming from and you are correct in what you do, we just want you to do this small part different." Bosses are not doing their jobs of correcting behavior. If you get fired, you get a new job! Do people not understand that this not working?! Important

I notice how the list keeps going on and on what is fuel to use against as example the democratic party. What this will do is cause more animosity amongst people by giving them more to talk about how the democratic party is the worst idea ever and the only other option of the republican party is the only way since one party is viewed as doing everything right and the other does everything wrong. Important

When you explain this material to so many people about what society does wrong, you will lose so many people because they don't want to hear others criticized. They have friends for instance that are spoiled but they like the friend anyways.

People will be so immature or incompetent in society that they will have to keep raising the age of consent, but they won't.

People think highly of you based on the way you dress.

They don't have a limit to how much insanity someone says or does before they give up on them and want too never be around them. It is all or nothing whether they give up or not.

Some people just want to complain so they will ask why gluten is in the food is there they ordered when they already knew it had gluten, a worker confirmed this for me.

Muhammad was outgoing he wanted wife after wife. It wasn't about status or to be respected by others. It just shows we do polygamy wrong where men want more wives as some sort of perk to tell others. I think polygamy works great it is just difficult to perform properly for most.

We are not still revising the Bible's and Quran's interpretations. If you read scripture literal like I do. Yes, we do disagree over parts though.

People vote based on household not based on paycheck that is somewhat of the time when they vote based on paycheck.

Society tries making places as professional as possible that aren't. I think you know what I am getting at with this. I'm talking about jobs no one applies to or an apartment no one would ever want to stay at.

People always think they are right no matter what. It is not worth your time to ever debate someone's words or actions.

The professor at college who he and I argued over democrat republican told me a good word of advice, he said "you don't draw conclusions to life at your age (21)". I agree with him fully. I make improvements to my minor errors. Here's the thing, his advice doesn't apply to me nor the world we live in today. There is little to revise in this. He's neither right nor wrong, I trust what I do when I type this material, others may not and that's fine.

People who claim mental health issues and only care about themselves are so pathetic it is beyond words. To act as if they are owed happiness. Nobody will denounce the mental health field because they don't want to lose friends.

I don't know cops that well but from what I've seen if they are there to defuse the situation by talking to people to calm them down and taking them to a psych ward if need be, then just get rid of most cops. We don't even need cops to teach us our rights, they can teach us rights in high school as courses. They should not be paid to deescalate a situation. They should only answer for crime, not for arguments people have.

Religious institutions need to teach discipline and structure. They should not teach tolerance.

All they do on these radio shows is gossip about what religious people do and news about religious people. It is so clear their dialogue is for nothing. It’s not to teach or inform others to think critically, it is just hey this is what we like and don’t like about Christians and Christianity. It’s senseless.

You can never grab at someone’s food, you have to ask first no matter how well you know them. That’s another law of life.

The more stressors the higher the responsibility the more money you make at a job. It’s got nothing to do with the knowledge you possess. Jobs when hiring look for previous work experience to see if you can work the job. The college experience is to see are you familiar with the field, not how much do you know about the field. Employers don’t care how much you know. They only care for what you know in a certain sect of the field.

If you want to get wiser listen to people on the internet that are so cringe. Listen to every word and find out how many mistakes they make and how they sell their bad ideas to the public.

To the people who claim an Abrahamic faith who want to be accepted by everyone and want to accept everything in society while thinking you are right over key issues society doesn’t do, you truly don’t get it. I can’t help but laugh at people that figure I accept everyone so everyone should always include me in everything. That way of thinking gets you laughed at. You can aspire to be loved by everyone in the world, but you can’t expect others to love you, many don’t in the world.

Famous atheists are not denying God for the reason being they had a rough upbringing. We know the reason now.

America hasn’t accepted yet that people need to grow up in society.

Everything is a theory in psychology. Ironically many things in the brain can be proven.

It’s a stereotype to claim money corrupts character. They claim it is how you are raised. We can do studies on what money does to someone. They claim it can’t be proven, this can. Money raises someone’s status and makes them believe they are better than they are. Therefore, religion has zakat payment.

People seriously believe posting videos on the internet about their problems helps by getting support from others so there will be more and more, the word will spread that it is working for those do this, ugh.

If you call homosexuals names some will still be friends some won't, they might drop your number if they have mutual friends you can't stand.

People in Massachusetts don't see religion as part of their legacy.

I believe not practice is wrong in Judaism and Christianity such as going to a Synagogue on Saturday or a Church on Sunday. It is the verses in the Bible, there's a very good number of verses that are incorrect along with Christians praying to Jesus.

People don't care about what you believe at all. The problem starts when you talk about some serious matter that both disagree with. Every you have to end the conversation.

In many churches they don't have Bibles in the pews. In many churches the people there don't talk about the Bible, and they talk about one or two verses during the sermon. Other churches the people bring their Bibles to study with the pastor. This is neither right nor wrong. In Islam everyone reads the Quran before starting the sermon and it seems the sermons mostly talk about stories from Prophet Muhammad.

In the future many will believe they speak for the public because they get so many people to agree with them that the world believes what they want when the world doesn't on behalf of "humanity." This is comical.

I'm spelling out that if everything is a theory in psychology then the brain cannot be studied at any level meaning all these books on the development of us humans are for nothing. But we know these books are very good and accurate. I'm just showing how psychology is all a lie why to be religious since Islam is a fact. I have this great example, a worker told me humans favor experiences. You could respond with plenty of people who don't want experiences and are not depressed in any way. He cannot dispute what I just said. This also goes for if I pushed him in the back, he would get mad if I did that. But it is just a theory in psychology that people get mad when being shoved from the back. Psychology is just an excuse to deny what is fact saying "I don't know" to life's greatest questions of Islam being a fact such as marriage being ordained by God that God wants marriages. In psychology they would say we don't know if life intended for marriage or not, each person's brain is different. This means psychologists deny all absolutes. Religion and psychology are opposites, but to learn more about humanity, you have to go through psychology and read good books on human behavior of what is normal and what isn't acceptable. What brings people joy, anger, all emotions. Only 35% of psychologists base their life on religion which tells me of that 65% they got nothing from the Bible than wisdom quotes found in Psalms for instance. Since everything is a theory in psychology, psychology cannot be used to deny God's existence. They are all agnostic unless they put their religion before their career, I doubt that many do. Important

Abortion to me will always be a form of hypocrisy since someone is claiming they deserve to be born and someone else doesn't. You can't argue it is in someone's best interest citing some bull study that being raised without parents leads to an awful life especially when these same people say anyone of any financial status can be happy in life. Being pro-abortion means you are clinically depressed that you cannot see good to life for others that you yourself are not a model for others to follow for joy in life.

We do care what people think of us. I know this because I had holes in a few of my shirts and it bothered me to some degree. I have a picture from high school, I was very skinny. I'm not really bothered by that part, but the shirt I wore was out of size in the neck area big time and it bothers me to look at it. In theory it shouldn't bother me at all, but it does big time. Important

First, they argue morality then they argue the miracles didn't happen. It happens every time. Very rarely do people who hate Islam say that we don't understand the tex. I have seen that a few times with delusional people who claim the Bible allows for homosexuality. I've never seen someone say that I don't understand the Quran.

Remember that as an Imam in North America and Europe you are only supposed to talk about Islamic stories and motivation. You're not supposed to talk about wars in the Middle East and what is going wrong with North America and Europe.

Being successful is part of someone's happiness so people will just keep trying to get a promotion at a job they don't even enjoy along with raises.

All empires spread by conquest. Yet they still give us Muslims trouble when all Christian empires too did spread by conquest.

It is a big problem in today's world where people think they speak for the world with their beliefs.

Generalization can mean anything. They say both can be right that saying Scandinavian countries are the happiest countries is not a generalization since I don't think it is. The word is misused.

It takes months before people can trust each other.

Whatever the people at the top decide, the people at the bottom have to make sense of it meaning the people at the bottom have to do all the work to make sure the country doesn't collapse, the people at the bottom are the leaders. See how this could fail?

The Talmud is rabbinical debates on rulings for legal cases for the Torah. Jews need the Talmud to understand the Torah's laws on how the laws apply. The hadiths are also used for legal rulings on how to construct the Sharia after the Quran is applied in full. The two are sort of alike, but to me it has a lot more in common one could argue the two are the exact same. The difference being is that the hadiths are accounts of Muhammad's life, however they are still used similarly.

People believe we all pray to God; these groups prayers are going to the Devil. They are the freemasons, talmudists, catholics, coexist, muslim brotherhood, jesuits, mormons, scientologists, khawarij, knights templar, wiccan, wahhabists, salafi (becoming hijacked), madkhalism salafi, unitarians, daesh, agnostics, kabbalahists, thelma, presbyterians, episcopal, church of england, bahai, atheists, crusaders, al qaeda. The groups that work for the Devil by accident are ahmadiyya (false Mahdi), buddhist, hindu, and gnosticism in Christianity (dualistic belief that there is an all-good god of the false gospel and all evil god of the Old Testament). Important

\All scholars agree that scripture must be read literal except if there is a census that a verse is metaphorical. I write literal but I believe some verses are metaphorical. Important

If there were multiple gods they would be fighting amongst each other for power. Allah holds all power which helps shows Islam is correct.

People like their political party far more than they do their religion. Then the catholic leaders for instance go along with it and say this is allowed this is allowed etc.

If people are so sensitive that means they can't be criticized.

You can tell the economy is bad because most have dead end jobs and they want to challenge themselves to keep growing. They want nicer material and they don't want a job that is easy. People don't want a 9 to 5 where they do the same thing every day. They want to be challenged.

Everyone wants better for themselves and for those who believe what we believe. We all want high potential for those who don't believe what we believe that's what our ideas are. Everyone wants better in their own way through their beliefs. They want better for them and their supporters, no one has ever settled for less than what they have been given, they've always wanted more until they can teach perfection through their beliefs.

Important

With Christianity I would say 80 percent argue the miracles didn't happen the other 20 argue morality in the Old Testament. I've never seen someone argue that Jesus wasn't a moral person. With Islam, it is always about morality.

At the Christian schools they only teach principles and how God relates to their lives. Nothing about the Middle East. They let you choose if you support Palestine or not.

Muhammad said for men to marry young, if possible, Muhammad wanted followers of Islam to grow up as quickly as possible, that is a method of doing such. As a man you must cater to a woman's emotional needs, that could get just about anyone to grow up provided they want good for themselves and others. By that hadith alone you can tell what Allah wants from us.

You can't teach behavioral issues; it is up to the person. It isn't like knowledge at all. It's no wonder why cities like Worcester are so bad. They can have more knowledge; it will not get them to stop getting into conflicts with each other. It's their culture. I had it all wrong thinking better education would fix it. People believe that because the citizens of Worcester don't get good grades that's the cause. Good grades won't do anything.
Important

I didn't know that people would talk about work material such as moving to a new apartment just to have a conversation with someone else. I had thought no one would want a conversation like that because it could lead to stress thinking about it. Clearly it doesn't lead to stress for most.

The left always messes up that the rich put out jobs and boost the economy by production giving more revenue. The left claims the rich don't pay their fair share in taxes; this is misleading on their part.

We are social beings so wouldn't it make sense to have religious centers? People overthink a concept like this where you can easily make friends at a religious center and talk about religion something you both share in common.

All wealth does is spoil people, it makes their standards go higher and higher that every little thing that happens to them is a problem of some kind.

The democratic party wants to infiltrate mosques worldwide to turn them into political correctness first over faith. Important

Most Christians only read the Bible metaphorical, only some Christians do not. Important

People in America don't do things because they want to do the right thing. They do it because they want to believe they "self-better" themselves. You can tell who does the right thing based on the responses they give towards matters such as wars in the Middle East and lgbt. They don't support the ideas in their religious beliefs. They do it because they want to feel embraced by others while believing they are "bettering themselves", this is the real world.

You can prove a Devil exists by way of taking a photo of someone when they don't want you to. If they get mad it's proof that yes what you are doing is wrong. There is not one person who wouldn't get upset.

Most people don't like dark humor in Massachusetts. Someone told me it depends on the joke, that's not true and dark humor is all or nothing.

If other people during Arabia in 570 were claiming to be Muhammad the Final Prophet of Allah, that doesn't disprove Islam. That isn't even evidence against religion. That claim would mean if tens of thousands were claiming to be Muhammad, it would make Islam less credible versus 20 or so people claiming such.

Do people not realize how dangerous it is for a therapist to try to convince a teenager they are transgender? Aren't these the same people who say everything is a theory?

Chinese people worship their ancestors so they will never convert. China's leaders believe in God. All the Chinese people care about is China their country. They want no part of what the world does.

Kaffir can mean to cover which means they cover their beliefs of God.

How does the big bang not sound like a fairy tale but Adam being the first human does to others? The big bang sounds like the impossible of some sort.

People who drink alone are trying to fill a void or they are trying to die. By void it means they don't have something they need inside of them. It is not that they drinking to get through the day, and this is their "cheat code". That serious alcoholism is, they are lacking reason to live, they haven't found it. If you are lacking something you don't function like if you lacked food. They can’t even look at themselves in the mirror. Avoid people like those at all costs. Social drinking is fine though. Important

The Old Testament is Allah speaking to us. The false gospel is scribes talking about what Jeshu said and did. This helps the case Islam is correct because the Quran follows the Old Testament where Allah talks to us. The false gospel is something completely different. How do Christians know Jesus claimed to be god? They can’t use the Old Testament as proof since the two books are written differently. Important

If God didn’t exist than racism wouldn’t matter. It would be wrong for someone to get angry at racist gestures since nothing is defined through America’s beliefs of psychology. Since polytheism has no scripture it would mean the same to them.

If not for Gamal Nasser, Saddam Hussein, and Hafez Al Assad, everyone would have left Islam since the countries were under the British and French control. Ruhollah revived Islam in Iran, but these are the ones who saved the world from ending. Important

If someone says we don’t know if the Quran is infallible or not, we know the Quran is. That’s not a valid response.

The Qatar world cup shows how people only want to get as drunk as possible and defeat the purpose of watching the game, it makes you wonder why they even allow fans in the stadium. They can just let these so-called fans go to a more expensive event to get as drunk as possible.

During war the Muslims today would recite the Quran. The American soldiers would blast heavy metal music to be as barbaric as possible. It shows who got the religion correct.

To the disbelievers who say that they will not become Muslim because Islam speaks of miracles, can they disprove all of the other concepts in Islam. The only other thing they try at with saying is that the laws of life are a “theory” something they can’t prove. Anything else I discuss, they don’t bother to debate it. They say, “we don’t know if miracles happened or not”, why are they speaking on my behalf?

Dialogue isn’t that bad in America, it is not horrific but thanks to the pc environment it leaves not much to talk about since most things are deemed offensive.

In Judaism and Christianity, you can claim you speak to God, in Islam you cannot.

Because most Muslims will say for instance the Shias are not Muslims or the Alawites are not real Muslims, what happens is less Muslims listen to you when you say the salafis and wahhabs are in on it thinking you are speaking against a religious ruling they make when in reality it's not that they get practices wrong it's that they get practices wrong it's that they distort Islam on purpose and they kill Muslims something the Alawites and Shias don't do. Also, I have to be a scholar to denounce them and Muslims would still say to me, "why do you attack Sunnis?" Saying that Alawites or Shias are not real Muslims is not the same as saying the wahhabs are enemies of Islam, those two statements have nothing in common. I don't believe the ahamdiyya's are real Muslims, but I don't think they work on behalf of the zionists and that they want to corrupt Islam from within. Yet for some reason, a Muslim thinks I am saying the same thing, I don't know why. Important

Most Muslims don't believe people are going to extremes to ruin Islam from with. They think there is only a very small portion of zionists hiding in Islam. They are wrong.

Muslims don't want to fund the Palestinians because the two parties are fighting each other between the Fatah and Hamas so the Muslims give up on Palestine, this is tragic.

Think about how most people take pride in the heritage such as if their ancestors are from the Netherlands and they live in America. Don't you think God would support someone taking pride in that?

People want to be sensitive as a way to understand someone else's needs. They couldn't be more wrong, being sensitive makes you weak minded and fall victim to someone taking advantage of you or feeling that people don't want to accept you. "* your feelings" assumption is that you are trying to be mean to someone. So, the left and the right will always be so different.

Once you start talking rude and condescending along with hateful speech you lose people.

Liberal Muslims want to get rid of slaughtering animals for sacrifice instead they want to donate money. They want to believe Islam is barbaric, they take shame in Islam.

Everyone has their own understanding of life, when you tell them what life was intended for they shut of immediately. It has nothing to do with the miracles as to why they don't believe in Islam.

Saying "that's haram" to something with an Arab accent that is bad for us like clubbing, that's always fun!

Psychologists think they are right to tell you not to get upset when someone mocks your religious beliefs, that you are wrong to get angry.

All these people who say we don’t need God, now we see what is happening to a Godless society with out of wedlock births so high and mental illness going higher and higher every year. Important

In Islam what you do is have the family present in the household before you get married to a woman. However long until the two love each other then that’s when they get married.

God didn’t put you in the wrong religion, you put yourself in the wrong religion. You’re not a teenager anymore, you are plenty capable of accepting the correct religion. Important

Everyone of every culture enjoys food and makes good food. I believe God made food enjoyable. Food had to be at least decent for humanity to eat it. God made food better than average. There isn’t anyone that doesn’t like good, we all like something even if it is only chicken fingers.

The idea that we all obey God I disagree with. I think people either obey God or they don’t, it is all or nothing and yes there are many people who disobey God. Allah wonders at the people of the Hellfire why they chose Hell, that hadith probably doesn’t support what I believe, it doesn’t really speak against it but reading it sounds less neutral towards what I believe where it is a bit more pro the argument against what I am saying here.

Do you think it is an accident that celebrities are held accountable for what they say and what they do considering their fans will take from them? It’s all by design, I think we can all agree. We need a society of people with a large following held accountable. That’s the agreement society has with celebrities.

Most Christians favorite disciple of Jeshu is Paul, that means they will never leave Christianity because all Muslims deny Paul as a disciple of Prophet Isa.

Christians tell us Muslims our Jesus is counterfeit. The Christian Jesus is counterfeit. The problem is most Muslims do not believe the Bible speaks of a counterfeit Jesus, so the Muslims use all the false gospel except for Paul to claim that the counterfeit Jesus was a Muslim. If the Muslims who make up the most of us Muslims showed how the Christian Jesus is counterfeit and some of the false gospel is Jesus’s word, then we would look right instead of trying to deconstruct the false gospel that speaks of a trinity and claim it doesn’t speak of a trinity that’s the mistake most Muslims make.

In psychology everything is a theory. That means murder and adultery is a theory meaning you can dispute it and murder someone claiming that is what society needs in order to be successful. Important

To this day, there is still no evidence of aliens existing.

If you eat too much you will become obese no matter what your genetics are, you will get obese. This is a law of life.

Saying “I was not there so the holocaust may or may not have happened” doesn’t hold up. We have video now along with records of how many talmudists went to the camps along with the size of the camps.

We would have a lot more hatred if everyone said that you have to accept whatever I say. This is true but there is a professional way of going about telling the truth about other groups.

Remember that your religion comes far before your heritage. Important

The world keeps trying to unite itself. People will keep looking for new ways to unite the earth. We Muslims in Iran, Yemen, Syria, Iraq, and Palestine are in serious trouble, that is an understatement on my part for me to say. In Iran their citizens know the Iranian government is not trying to unite the world with Khamenei writing on Twitter that he wants to destroy the zionist state, the elites want him on Twitter to say he is a hateful dictator.

People expect you to respect everyone. They expect you to give everyone a chance. That means they want you to know someone first before saying to them that you want no part of talking to them. Even if they are the opposite party, support the zionists, you aren’t allowed to write someone off. The way they see it is maybe you both like the same music, sports team, cars etc. They don’t want you writing people off if they support the zionists and not Palestine, that’s not at all how the world works. We Muslims have to keep writing people off. People don’t want to be told to support Palestine and the Iranian government.

Just because they were not there for Muhammad doesn’t mean Muhammad didn’t exist. They can never deny Muhammad existed.

People say religion doesn’t define you. I believe it does, it is your values.

Without religion, what are we doing on the earth? For many sciences, money, books, are not enough reason to live.

Adultery will always be impossible to heal from. In religion, adultery is taken very seriously and no matter what it will destroy a marriage.

Why does the death penalty exist in Islam? Because the crime committed is too severe that Allah will not forgive the sin on the earth. Remember that there are only a few crimes that carry the death penalty.

The muslim brotherhood are trying to unite all people, they are disbelievers. This isn't what they used to be in the 1970's.

You can't make people feel empathy for a matter regardless of what you give them, it's up to them.

You can never call a woman fat, that violates a law of life. If a woman is obese you have to tell them without using any words that mean the same as fat.

To anyone who thinks from the Nile to the Euphrates can be done peacefully along with capturing Second Jerusalem, you are so lost there aren't even words. Important

What's happening is that more and more people are leaving religion but the ones who are religious become more and more invested big time through talking about religion on the internet with others. I'm amazed at how it all functions. Important

I hate it when someone says "I don't want to talk about someone else" when it relates to me because that person has issues with me.

Having high wealth and a high status does not make you a better person, it does nothing of such sort. Only knowledge, charity, and piety can. Important

"we all bring something different to the table, we all have knowledge in matters that other people would want to know and would give us a better understanding of life", nope.

America has its own concerns between hating either the democratic or republican party, they have no time to insult us Muslims. Oh well.

No women likes when you go through her purse, that's a law of life.

People are always networking, they are always looking for more and more things of interest like new music that others recommend, this is the worldly life.

We are in a reality of some kind. This isn't like Star Wars going to other planets and laser beams. I don't know if this to be a fact but between the Anunnaki and the miracles performed by Prophets on the earth, they were not what people think. It is very simple is what I am saying, it is very realistic, and they weren't something that would blow you away except if you were Moses speaking to Allah. An Anunnaki may amaze you at first, but then over time you would get used to the Anunnaki and the Anunnaki would be like your friend. This isn’t at all what people think. The Gardens of Eden though could have been something completely different, but this is what I believe the miracles and Anunnaki were like. Important

Nobody on the earth likes to have what they view as private to be given to others or the public. This is a law of life; we can’t just hand out certain things such as the websites we go on to learn new material.

If you love a girl, you marry her. That’s how I explain it why not to have premarital sex that you are taking advantage of a situation regarding a woman. Boyfriend girlfriend to me benefits us guys the most because then I can just find another women there’s no point to be faithful. It’s part of growing up. The goal should never be to delay getting married, all the imams talk about this.
